IRA CLARK GODDARD

Ira Clark Goddard was born 25 Mar 1849 in Wetzel Co, (W)VA and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Zeta Holmes, near Holyoke, CO on 15 May 1915, at the age of 66 years, 2 months and 1 day.

In 1854, when a small child, he moved with his parents to Putnam Co, IN, where he lived for five years. In 1859, they moved to Northern Missouri. In 1874 he married Miss Alley Lynch, near Sheridan, IA. They had two daughters and in 1877, his wife passed away. In 1881, he was married to Miss Minerva Hughes, near Savanna, MO. He moved in about 1885 to Adams Co, NE, where he resided for one year and in the spring of 1886, he came to Chase Co, NE, which has since been his home. To this last union four children were born---three boys and one girl. His wife died 28 Feb 1900.

Mr. Goddard has lately made two trips to CA, staying there a year and a half, but came back since the death of his son-in-law, Emmet Holmes, and has been living with his daughter, helping her with the farm. He joined the Christian Church when a young man and was a member for years, but 21 Jan 1906, he was baptized and confirmed into the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints. His death was a severe shock to all, as he was in good health Tuesday morning and was working around the place getting ready to go to his homestead in the hills, when he was found about six o'clock lying near the wagon in the yard.

He was a devoted husband, a kind loving father and a good neighbor and friend. He leaves five brothers, two sisters and six children. The children are: Zeta Holmes and Iva Goddard, both of Holyoke, CO; Arie Banks, Frank Goddard, Harry Goddard and Earl Goddard, all of Champion, NE. There are nine grandchildren and other relatives to mourn his departure. They have the sympathy of a host of friends.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Walter Curtis of the LDS Church at Chase, NE.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Above info from "obituary notice." Ira Clark Goddard was the son of John Jefferson Goddard and Margaret Ullom. John J. Goddard was the son of Henry K. Goddard and Dorcas Long of Greene Co, PA and Wetzel Co, WV.

William and Ina moved to Washington County, Colorado in 1917 where they homesteaded. They were driven out by the dust storms and moved to Anderson, Indiana, about 1927. William and Ina had nine children altogether with three preceding Ina in death. Two children, names unknown, born in 1919 and 1920 in Colorado are both buried there. William operated a dairy in Anderson and was also employed by Delco Remy, a division of General Motors. After his retirement, William moved to California. Ina was born 7 Feb 1891 in Fairfield, Wayne County, Illinois and died 15 Aug 1931 in Anderson, Madison County, Indiana. She is buried in the Ovid Cemetery in Ovid, Indiana, which is near Anderson. Ina died a short time after the birth of her ninth child.

Children of William Townsend⁶ and Ina Iris (Owen) Hannaford were as follows:

- + 103. i. John William⁷ Hannaford, born 11 Apr 1918.
- + 104. ii. Susan Jane Hannaford, born 23 Nov 1921.
- + 105. iii. Gordon Coyle Hannaford, born 8 Aug 1923.
- + 106. iv. Mark Warren Hannaford, born 7 Feb 1925.
- + 107. v. Edna Vernette Hannaford, born 25 Mar 1928.
- + 108. vi. Robert Varian Hannaford, born 28 Sep 1929.

Clara Belle⁶ Hannaford, (John⁵, William John⁴, Robert³, John², John¹), born 27 Aug 1888 White County, Illinois; died 25 Nov 1983 Fairfield, Wayne County, Illinois; buried Pleasant Grove Cemetery, Wayne County, Illinois. She was married 2 Oct 1910, Wayne County, Illinois to William Henry Edwards, son of Robert Edwards and of Eva Claypool.
Clara, William, Loraine, Beryl and Jean all joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church 13 September 1925.
William was born 3 Oct 1878 in Mahaska County, Iowa and died 4 Oct 1972 in Fairfield, Wayne County, Illinois. He is buried in Pleasant Grove Cemetery, Barnhill Township, Wayne County, Illinois. William was married first to Mary O. Musgrave 5 Apr 1899 in Wayne County, Illinois. Mary was the daughter of Asbury Davis Musgrave and Eliza Ann Locke.

July 1979

John Jefferson son of Henry Kallem (Kollim, Kellum) and Dorcus Long was born about 1811 (according to Wetzel Co., Virginia 1860 census) or 1815 (according to Wetzel Co., Virginia 1870 census). John was to have been born in Pennsylvannia.

John married Margaret Ulum before 1841 as that was the birth of their first child. They had 10 children.

According to the obituary notice of William Henry (son of John and Margaret) his family moved from Virginia to Indiana, Greencastle, Putnam Co., about 1854 when William would have been 8.

The obituary notice of Samuel Darling (son of John and Margaret) states they moved from Indiana when he was about two making it around 1859.

It is believed they went right to the Ravanna, Mercer Co. Missouri area and John ~~probably~~ bought some land. His family seemed to value the ownership of land.

As best I can tell from info gathered Margaret Ulum gave birth to Caroline (1870 census of Mercer Co., Missouri) in 1862. By the 1870 census Margaret Ulum has left the picture and Margaret Bryan has entered. I have a hunch that Margaret Ulum may have died giving birth to Caroline as Margaret Bryan married John and had a son by 1864, just two years after Carolin's birth. Of course during this time period in history it was not unusual for a person to get sick and die in just a matter of days, so most anything could have happened.

Margaret Bryan had been deserted by her husband leaving her with two children, Don and Mary E (age 14 and 10 born in Missouri again 1870 census). There whereabouts after 1870 census is unknown. Last name Hickman.

In 1864 (according to grandson Earnest Pickett) John Douglas was born to Margaret Bryan Hickman and John Jefferson Goddard.

John was to have lived his life and owned land in the Mercer Co. city of Ravanna area of Missouri. The last four children are listed as having been born in Ravanna.

There have been ^{no} ~~no~~ ^{any} ~~land records~~ found as ~~yet~~ ^{any} ~~nor~~ ^{any} death records for either Margarets or John. John is to be buried in Ravanna cemetery, no marker. ^{near son Ahaz.}

Woodie (son of William) remembers at about age 10 that he, William and John were bringing in the cows when John had a heart attack and died in the field. This was told to me by Calvin, grandson of Woodie. (about 1885)

Info on Margaret Bryan from Earnest Pickett and Marie Holmes.

Death info on Margaret Bryan has been found. In Ravanna Cemetery.

Answered the Summons
The following is clipped from a Ravenna, Nebraska, paper: "Last Sunday afternoon George Goddard, a prominent farmer of Ravenna township, was suddenly stricken with paralysis of the stomach, which later affected his heart, causing death before medical aid could reach him. Mr. Goddard was a widower and at the time of his sudden illness and subsequent death he was alone with the exception of his only child, a little girl ten years of age. A doctor had been summoned but arrived too late to render any assistance to the sufferer. Deceased was about sixty years of age and a veteran of the civil war. The funeral took place at Ravenna Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock." Mr. Goddard was a brother of W. H. and Ira Goddard of Russell precinct, who have the sympathy of all in the loss of their brother.

OBITUARY

the state of Virginia, January 10th, 1846, and died at his home in Webb City, Missouri, Monday, October 13, 1930, at the age of 84 years, 9 months and 3 days.

He, with his parents and family, moved to Indiana at the age of 8 years and from there to Mercer County, Missouri.

In the year of 1863 he joined Company B. of the 6th Missouri Calvary of Volunteers, at the age of 17. Later he enlisted with Company G, of the 13th Missouri Calvary of Volunteers. During the winter of 1864 and 1865 he crossed these plains and was stationed at Fort Morgan.

He was married to Mary E. Alexander at Revena, Missouri, April 8th 1868. She preceeded him in death 6 years.

To this union eleven children, 10 boys and one girl, were born. Clark of Benkelman, Dale of Imperial, Fred. Harry, Woodie and Clint of Champion, Squire of Damsite, Missouri and Mrs. Myrtle Maranville of Benkelman. Squire being at his father's bedside at the time of his death.

Bertie, Chase and Lige preceeded their father in death.

He leaves to mourn his departure 8 children, 42 grandchildren, 6 great grandchildren, one brother, one sister, two half brothers, one half sister and a host of other relatives and close friends.

He, with his family, immigrated to Chase County, Nebraska in 1886, during the early settlement of the state, and passed through the hardships that this country endured in the early days of its existence.

We feel greatly indebted to him as a soldier, early settler and a loving husband, rather, brother and friend. There will always remain in our hearts the warm memories which we shall forever cherish.

At an early age he joined the Christian church but later transferred his membership to the Church of God.

He was married, at the time of his death, to Lillie Caughenbaugh, who was left at their home in Webb City, Missouri. She, being an invalid, unable to attend the funeral of her husband.

We feel that one of our best and loyal friends has passed on to his eternal reward and our greatest consolation is Hope.

The funeral sermon was delivered by Reverend Terry of Wanneta, at the Church in Champion, after which the American Legion took charge of the body and presented it with a full military funeral, at the interment, in the Chase cemetery.

MRS. GODDARD DIES FOLLOWING ACCIDENT

Mrs. Clark Goddard sustained injuries which resulted in her death in a car accident between North Platte and McCook July 4th. The accident happened about two hours before dark as Mr. and Mrs. Goddard were returning from North Platte where they had spent the Fourth. Immediately following the accident a couple of Burlington railroad officials who were traveling close behind the Goddard car, brought Mr. and Mrs. Goddard to the McCook hospital where doctors found one of the bones of Mrs. Goddard's wrists to have been fractured. But their investigation apparently disclosed no further injuries, other than minor cuts and bruises and they told Mr. Goddard that unless something further developed which was then unforeseen, she would make a rapid recovery and be ready to return home in a few days. Mr. Goddard went to a hotel and secured a room and the next morning returned to the hospital where he conversed with his wife who said she was feeling much better. She advised Mr. Goddard to return home and look after the chickens and garden and return for her later, perhaps Sunday. The doctors gave him assurance that everything was favorable to her early recovery and he went up town to watch for a ride home, his car being in a garage for repairs. A few hours later, Mrs. Goddard's condition took a radical change for the worse. Her temperature arose with lightning-like speed until it had attained a rating of 120 degrees. She lived about thirty minutes after this marked rise in temperature began and was unconscious thru it all. An effort was made to locate Mr. Goddard, hospital attendants believing he had returned home, and it was sometime before he was located in McCook but not until after his wife passed away.

Doctors felt that Mrs. Goddard had either suffered an internal hemorrhage or that a blood clot in her brain had been the cause of her sudden death. While her heart was naturally inclined to be a little weak, it was not believed that this played any great part in her demise.

Funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. J. C. Foster and interment was in the Benkelman cemetery.

There was considerable traffic on the McCook-North Platte highway the evening of July 4th and Mr. Goddard was driving with a view of reaching McCook before dark. He had been driving behind a car for some time and had attempted several times to get the driver of the car to get to his side of the highway so that he could pass. Either the driver could not hear or was not interested as he proceeded to hold the right-of-way at a speed of from twenty to thirty miles. Finally the machine drove far over to the left side and Mr. Goddard speeded up in hope of slipping past him on the right side. When he was almost side by side with the machine it started to return to its own position, trapping the Goddard car between it and the ditch. Mr. Goddard immediately applied the brakes. The braking system was either enough out of adjustment to pull him into the ditch or the front wheels caught in the loose gravel and went into the ditch. The machine turned over at least two times and was badly wrecked. Mrs. Goddard was thrown a distance of perhaps fifteen feet from the car. It is not known whether she was thrown thru the window or if the car door flew open when the machine turned over and then righted itself in the next turn. At any rate both car doors were closed when the machine came to a stop. Mr. Goddard maintained his position in the driver's seat and was not seriously injured, although badly bruised from the accident. He is rapidly recovering however.

Mr. and Mrs. Goddard have lived in this section for some time and were well and favorably known to our people who unite in extending to Mr. Goddard their sincere sympathy in the tragic loss of his loved one.

Miss Lucy Izeman was born in Greenbay, Wisconsin, on May 2nd, 1882 and died in the McCook hospital on July 5, 1934 at 3 o'clock p. m., age, 51 years 2 months and 3 days.

Her death was caused by an automobile accident, as she and her husband were returning home from North Platte where they had celebrated the 4th of July.

Her early life was spent in Wisconsin.

She was united in marriage to Mr. Goddard in Huron, South Dakota. They then moved to Chase county where they spent the first eight years of their married life, afterwards moving to a farm which they bought, four miles southeast of Benkelman. They lived there until four years ago when they bought property in Benkelman.

She was a faithful member of the East Side County Circle and took an active part in both the social and religious activities of the Circle. She leaves to mourn her departure her husband, one sister in Herral, South Dakota, one brother in Greenbay, Wisconsin, besides many other relatives and a host of friends. She will be greatly missed in our community.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the home, being conducted by Rev. Foster. Interment was in the Benkelman cemetery.

Harry Al Goddard Buried Last Sunday

Harry Albert Goddard was born at Revena, Missouri December 6, 1870 and departed this life at his home near Champion Nebraska on January 18, 1940 at the age of 69 years, 1 month and 12 days.

He moved with his parents to Chase County, Nebraska in the year 1886 and except for a short time in which they moved and lived in Harlen county he resided here permanently.

He was married to Iva, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Yost, sr., and to this union four children were born, one son Jesse and three daughters, Millie, Ida and Alma Jean, who are all at home. He leaves to mourn his departure his loving wife and children, one step-daughter, Mrs. Georgie Pelle Jones, one sister, Mrs. H. C. Maranville of Benkelman, Nebraska; six brothers, Clark of Benkelman, Nebraska; Woodie, of Dumas, Texas; Fred and Dale of Imperial, Nebraska; Clint of Champion, Nebraska and Squire of Phoenix, Arizona and a host of other relatives and friends.

He loved education and was willing to make every sacrifice to put his children through school and he always worked for what he believed to be right for the betterment of the community.

In the year 1923 he was baptized and joined the Seventh Day Advent Church and remained a faithful member and a true believer and follower of God until he passed away.

He had been ailing for a period of more than two years, but bore his sufferings so bravely that none realized how seriously ill he was until the last few months when all that loving hands could do was done to no avail.

He was a kind and loving husband and father, a faithful friend and brought sunshine into the lives of all who knew him. Words fail to exist that would express how much he will be missed, however we believe that God is proud of those who bear a sorrow bravely. Proud indeed of them who walk straight through the dark to find Him.

Funeral services were held at the Chase Church Sunday, January 21st, with Rev. K. D. Johnson officiating. Luhrs Service in charge. Burial was in the Chase cemetery.

On October 16, 1920 Woodie was shot in the arm supposedly by a Mexican who was robbing him. They were in the streets in Cheyene, Nebraska. Woodie was found on the street and taken to the hospital while he waited for his family to come. Floyd, Uncle Sam and Myrtie (his wife) finally came but by this time Woodie had blood poisoning and his arm was removed on October 31, 1920. It is said that at first Myrtie did not believe that Woodie was hurt. Word came by telegram.

Another story was that Woodie got shot while playing poker.

Woodie was quite a well to do man in his early days. When he came to Washington he saw a house in Sumner which he liked because it had a view of the mountain from the front porch. It is told he ask the owner if he would like to sell the house and was told no. Woodie ask if he were to sell what would be ask for it. The response was $4000.00. Woodie pulled out the money and paid the man. They moved in on January 26, 1945. Myrtie later sold the house in 1975 for $4500.00. On July 19, 1975 she moved into and apartment in Sumner and the house was torn down and an apartment building put up in its place.

Woodie was to have lost his money on horse races and died with nothing but his home and land.

It is told that Woodie left Texas because of financial problems with the liquor store he and Jay owned. (His son Jay) They sold it to Davie (Myrtie's brother) and Wayne (Woodie's boy) and they owned it only a couple of years. The story goes that there were taxes unpaid and possibly the reason for Woodie leaving Texas.

The name of the first male emigrant to America has not yet been definitely determined. According to a journal of Eleanor

Strother Cassidy, granddaughter of Andrew Cassidy Jr., he was

William Cassidy, a university graduate from Ireland, who spoke Gaelic. However her record confused him with his son Andrew sr.

^{Mr} married Anna Barbara Razor. He is supposed to have landed at Charleston, South Carolina, and to have owned the land where the present town of Danville, Kentucky now stands. The following is however what has been established from the records.

ELIZABETH CASSADY was born in Ireland perhaps around 1745. The first record in which her name appears is in a marriage bond of her daughter Elizabeth Cassady or Cassaday to Jacob Wall on 24 Jan

1794 in Mercer Co., Ky. She does not appear in any of the censuses and later seems to have migrated with her daughter Elizabeth Wall to Casey Co. She was certified by the Casey co. court in September 1823, as being an impoverished widow. Under the land law at that time, a widow could be granted 100A for her support. The grant was made in 1824 and was on Indian Creek in Casey Co. In the circuit court orders, there was a case carried on for years, about this is between Elizabeth Walls vs. Elizabeth Cassady heirs. Jacob Wall, husband of Elizabeth Cassidy took the land over without a deed, but the note in the order book does not give much more detail.

Children of _____ (possibly William) Cassady and Elizabeth

1. Andrew b. 16 Mar 1764 d. 30 Mar. 1808 m. Anna Barbara Razor

11 Elizabeth b. 1773/4 d. 1855 m. Jacob Wall Jr.

111 Polly/Mary b. ca 1787 m. Andrew Crouch

God hath not promised
skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
all our lives through;
God hath not promised
sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
peace without pain.

But God hath promised strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
light for the way,
Grace for the trials,
help from above,
Unfailing sympathy,
undying love...

Zach Goddard, a 2015 graduate, died Saturday in the Gig Harbor area. He passed away after being brought to the hospital by a couple of friends, according to Pierce County sheriff's spokesman Ed Troyer.

Alcohol played a factor in the death, Troyer said, and at this point it's not considered a suspicious death. A detective has been assigned to the case.

Goddard's cause of death has yet to be determined, according to Pierce County medical examiners.

Goddard was one of the area's best football players and wrestlers during his time in high school. He was known for being humble, hard-working, genuine and caring to everyone around him.

As a wrestler, Nickels still uses Goddard as an example to his current athletes.

“His character — when you set goals, put up the effort — these things can happen for you,” Nickels said. “We often talk about Zach in those regards to our kids now. He’s left a strong memory in our program and will continue to do so. ... He embodied the best of what we could hope to represent our school and our program.”

Goddard finished as high as second place in the state as a Class 3A wrestler, and was named to the 2014 The News Tribune’s All-Area football team as a defensive back for the Seahawks. He graded out as the team’s most productive tackler that season, with 81 tackles, including 10-1/2 tackles for loss.

When Val Jean was 4 months old she was legally adopted to Mr and Mrs Brines. Dorothea told Jackie when she was 7 yrs old that Doris was her real mother, she also told her about Val Jean.

In 1979 Jackie began her search for her sister. Through an anonymous letter in Aug of 1982 she received Val Jeans name and address. On Aug 29, 1982 Jackie called ValJean.

Doris did not want Jackie to find Val Jean althou Doris had been in contact with Val Jean since 1979. Doris has let Jackie know she wants nothing to do with either of the girls and her sons know nothing about their sisters.

I have this info filed in my files but not in my history book with the family info. I filed the two girls together with a statement that they were both born to a Goddard. For quite a while I had been trying to prove the link between John Minor and Isaac Minor and everywhere I looked I saw the will of Isaac as evidence of this. However, what I knew about John and Isaac did not match in a way I was comfortable with. I had a search made of the Orphans Court records and received the information that shows the John who married Nancy Goddard is not the son of Isaac. The son of Isaac is reported to have died unmarried and intestate. The record is

At 107 years young, Cad Maranville, a resident at the Hester Home, is sitting here with ONE of his birthday cakes. Many people wished him Happy Birthday, with more to come!

Cad Maranville A life of History

By Leslie-anne French

Henry Calvin "Cad" Maranville celebrated his 107th birthday Thurs., Apr. 26, 1979 at the Hester Memorial Home where he is a resident. Cad has lived through much of what we study as history.

Cad was born near Lewiston, Illinois in 1872. He helped his father on the farm until he was about 15. In February 1887, Cad's father chartered a railroad car and shipped the furniture, a team of horses and a house, sort of a modern "pre-fab" house, to Nebraska. Cad smuggled his way through to Nebraska in the railroad car. He got off in Benkelman. He remembers wild horses and herds of buffalo in the sandhills.

Cad was a real cowboy, herding cattle in Hayes County before the turn of the century. It was a lonely job, out there in the "wide open spaces and sandhills." Cad also ran wild horses with a couple of buddies over to Cheyenne Wells, CO. After they had lost the herd of wild horses, they decided to go to Cripple Creek, CO, and work. After hauling downed timber for three or four months, they went home, only to return to Cripple Creek to work in the gold mines. Cad was 23 years old. Through some misfortune, they lost their mine to claim jumpers. The bad guys got ore out of the mine that yielded $22,000 per ton. They became independently wealthy. Cad is still miffed at that.

Cad then returned to Nebraska in 1896 on a bicycle after working at making charcoal in Colorado Springs. It was winter, with three inches of snow on the ground and by the time he'd made it home, he was starving and almost dead from exhaustion.

In 1900, Cad married Mary Goddard of Imperial and to this union seven children were born. Cad loved to play baseball. He told me that his "reign as king of the mound lasted 15 years". He had a hard, fast ball and was "very tricky".

Cad has lived through two World Wars, two "conflicts" and has seen the development of automobiles and airplanes. Man's journey to the moon holds a special fascination for Cad. Public use of electric lights, telephones, radios, televisions, movies, all of these things have come to pass as Cad has lived. Perhaps we can all see by this man that our senior citizens DO have a lot of knowledge to pass on. It's there for the asking.

It's there at no charge, and what an interesting way to learn about ourselves, our heritage, our community. Don't let this wealth of information that is stored in the heads of our seniors go to waste. First hand information and stories have excellent educational benefits. I bet they'd be tickled to share their experiences and adventures with us... if we'd but ask.

106-year old looks at life

By DORIS J. MATHEWS
Staff Writer

H. C. "Cad" Maranville of East Mesa hasn't even celebrated his 106th birthday yet, and already he's looking forward to his 116th.

"Do you suppose," he was asked, "it's because you enjoy your birthday parties so much?"

"I expect it is," he says in his dry, thin voice, smiling with an enduring sense of humor that hasn't diminished in the past 105 years.

Although he will actually observe his 106th birthday April 26 at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Harry R. Boles, 8127 E. Fourth Ave., his party will be held April 28 at Oasis P.

Already the house is beginning to fill with the 60-100 persons expected to attend the party, including two daughters, Mrs. Price (Darlene) Allrad, Mesa; Mrs. Goldie Harper, Longmont, Colo.; and two sons, Lloyd, Binkleman, Neb.; and Calvin, of Midwest City, Okla. Maranville came to live in East Mesa from Nebraska 15 years ago following the death of his wife of 60 years.

When Cad does celebrate his birthday April 26, he will immediately become a very important statistic in the United States...adding to the 255 persons who have reached the age of 106. Previously, he wasn't that important statistically...one in 10,698 who had reached 100 years of age or over in the United States.

Mrs. Allrad has estimated from these figures that only one person in 1,176,470 reaches her father's age.

But being an important statistic means little to the good-natured gentleman. More important to him, despite a winter bout with bronchitis that left him still feeling weak, is fishing, digging weeds, feeding the birds, watering the trees and plants, and tending his own garden.

He's pretty much of a homebody because, he says, he "has too much work to do." An early riser, he's out of bed by 5 a.m. and by 6 a.m. has all his self-imposed chores completed, his bed made and his bedroom straightened, and is waiting in the kitchen for his daughter to get up and make his breakfast.

"Cad" working in his garden

The first meal of the day is no cold-cereal beginning for Cad. He likes his two pancakes, ham, eggs, oatmeal and coffee.

"And he uses heaps of sugar on everything," says his daughter, laughing. "You should see how much he piles on his pancakes!"

The wise old man, who has more pep and energy than people half his age, comes from the state that is supposed to be the most healthful in the United States...Nebraska. And he is living proof of another claim for Nebraska...that its people live longer than from any other state. How do you account for that since he's lived here 15 years? Says his daughter humorously, "We go back for renewal each year."

Cad, asked what he feels contributed to his long life, replied, "I've never chased wild women or drank hard liquor. I've worked hard all my life."

Does he still like women? "Why, certainly!"

Asked if he was going on his traditional fishing trip this year on his birthday, Cad said he expects he will. "If I can find some worms." Despite being hard of hearing, he maintains his sense of humor.

Born in Lewistown, Ill., Cad moved to Nebraska with his parents when he was 19. Schooling was figured in terms of three months long, and by the time Cad was 21, he had completed three terms, was reading from the third grade reader, and doing eighth grade arithmetic.

Times were tough on the Nebraska prairie, and the family boiled sorghum for sweetening. "To this day, I can't stand the taste of sorghum," he explains.

He helped mother with the wash by carrying water from the creek, and by operating the "jouncer" in the clothes tub.

A short distance from their rough home was a herd of buffalo, but they were soon killed off. Asked if they had a heating stove, he said, "Land, no. We could hardly get enough cow chips and sagebrush roots to keep the cook stove going, let alone a heating stove."

He worked three-four summers herding cattle. "People who hear cowboy stories think there was just excitement, but it wasn't." His eyes stare into the past, and the voice softens. "It was so lonely."

He and Charley and Wild Bill Berry went to Cheyenne Wells, Colo., one summer to catch a herd of wild horses. They would run them constantly, stopping for fresh horses, until the wild ones were tired and could be caught. But Charley went to sleep at the wrong time and they lost the herd.

In 1894, at 22, he and a group of men went to Cripple Creek, Colo., during the gold rush. They stayed all winter, and instead of panning gold, they picked up downed timber, and sold it to residents for $2-3 per load.

Then they rented a one-room cabin and worked in the mines. They worked the Victor Lead mine until they opened a pocket of water, and had to abandon it.

Shortly thereafter, another company came in, pumped out the water and found enough ore to become independently rich. "There is where I missed it. If I had just stayed with it and pumped it out, I'd be the one that was rich today."

As it was, they moved on to the Smuggler's Mine, where they took out enough ore to buy a lumber mill.

Cad was 30 when he married, his bride was 20, and they bought the farm that he still owns in Binkelman, Neb. It is now operated by Cad's son and grandson.

Expected to attend his birthday party are a sister-in-law from San Fernando, Calif., and numerous grandchildren, great and great-great grandchildren.

This man, who has seen a nation go from horse and buggy transportation to space travel, was asked if he had any desire to visit the moon. "No," he said, shaking his head doubtfully, "I'd just rather keep my feet on the ground."

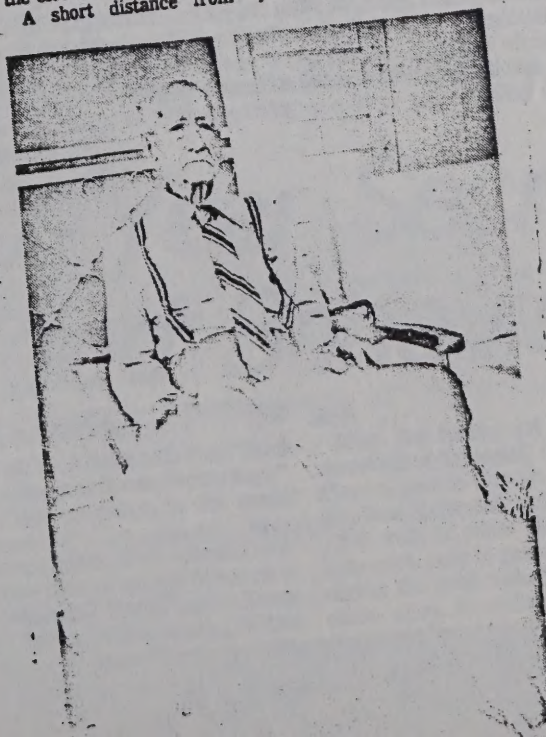

What does the future hold for Cad Maranville. Well, his dream is to install an irrigation system on his 138 acres in Nebraska, on which he raises alfalfa and wheat.

Despite the fact that the system would probably cost $40,000, his daughter says he's determined to put water on his farm. "But Dad, where will you get the money?"

"I'll borrow it from the Land Bank. After all, I'm just 106."

Just 106? Well, with his vim and vigor, he's probably a better risk at 106 than most of us are at 40.

Memory Lane

Henry Calvin "Cad" Maraville squeezes out a smile while sitting before a bulletin board filled with birthday cards sent for his 107th birthday. Cad celebrated his birthday April 24 at the Hester Memorial Home, where he has been a resident for almost 10 months. Gov. Charles Thoma was among those sending birthday wishes, and Hester Home nurses say Cad is enjoying a card or letter from the president. Cad moved to Nebraska with his family in 1882, becoming a cowboy and herding cattle in Hayes County. (Gazette photo)

107-Year Secret: 'Good Behavior'

By SCOTT SIMONS

BENKELMAN — A man who has "lived through everything a man can live through" says "all the natural things in the world they've taken away."

The man should know, he was born in 1872. And although he quietly spends his days in the Hester Memorial Home here, Henry Calvin "Cad" Maraville recently reached level.

After the family set up a farm-ranch operation in Imperial, Cad, with a couple friends, went to Cripple Creek, Colo. where they hauled downed timber.

He was 23 when the trio returned to Nebraska, only to go back to Cripple Creek during the gold rush. It was there that he came close to riches, spoiled by claim

The Holyoke Enterprise, Holyo

A world without sight, sound give Clarence

By Brenda Johnson

While sight and hearing were lost from Holyoke's Clarence Goddard's life at an early age of 10, his senses of touch and smell took over and combined with a positive attitude to make Clarence a very happy 73-year-old gentleman who describes his life as "simple."

Mr. Goddard lives alone, cooks for himself, does his own shopping, corresponds with numerous friends and relatives, reads, travels and loves to visit. The fact that he can neither see nor hear has not stopped him from enjoying life to its fullest.

With two brothers and a sister in California and another brother in Washington, Clarence finds traveling to be a priority in his life. While someone takes him to the airport and meets him at his destination, he is quite satisfied to travel alone.

Prior to the times of air travel, Clarence enjoyed his trips by train or automobile. In fact, he admits that planes are quicker, but he preferred train and car travel because one could "see" more.

His sharp memory recalled several trips he has enjoyed. Clarence returned June 26 from his recent month-long visit in California and he pleasantly told of the birthday party his family had surprised him with.

Clarence was born June 14, 1909, on a farm near Champion, Nebr. In an autobiography that he wrote at the age of 16, Clarence noted, "I like to think that my birthday is in the same month as Helen Keller's. I am glad, too, that it is on Flag Day, because I love Old Glory."

At the age of 10, Clarence lost his hearing and sight by spinal meningitis. His autobiography notes that Clarence was unwilling to be convinced at first that he would never see nor hear again. One day, someone brought him letters of the alphabet carved from wood. In this way, people began to talk to him, spelling out each word by handing him one letter at a time.

Later, a nurse outlined letters in his hand. At first, it was hard to recognize them, and he would ask for the wooden letters, but in time he could very quickly get the words printed in his palm. Several years later when writing his autobiography, Clarence noted that he was so used to having people talk to him by printing words in his palm that it seemed as if he could hear. "Since my hands have become my ears, I try always to keep them clean," he wrote.

Today, Clarence still communicates with people by having them spell out words in his hand. He can even decipher the writing on his arm or shoulder or even his ankles, he joked. He said the only problem he has is when secretaries try to communicate in shorthand!

Clarence attended the Nebraska School for the Blind in Nebraska City, while in his teens, and there he learned how to read and write in Braille.

Specific incidents that were very significant in Clarence's life during those years were becoming a member of the Methodist Church, meeting Helen Keller in person, gaining confidence in himself and acquiring some wonderful friends and teachers.

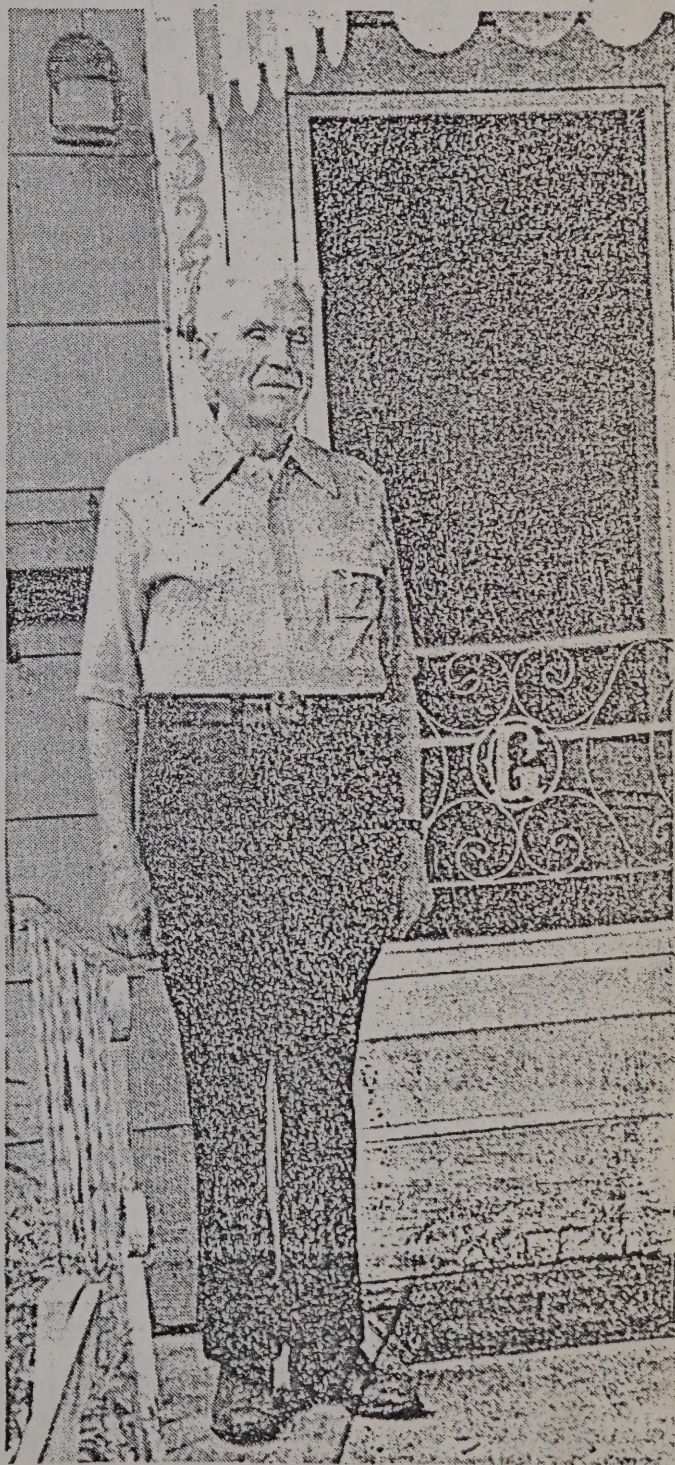

Clarence's house in Holyoke is as typical as any other American home. He has numerous books in Braille that he gets from the library in Salt Lake City. He receives The Upper Room, a Methodist magazine; Guideposts and the New York Times newspaper (all in Braille) on a regular basis.

Neighbor Leona Mason noted that Clarence keeps up on his news so much that it keeps her on her toes to be able to communicate with him. She said he is an avid reader, going through one book right after another. His Braille copy of the Bible is kept near his bed.

Mrs. Mason expressed that Clarence has a strong belief in God which has kept him going all these years. "He amazes us every day with all that he does," said Leona, adding, "He actively takes care of himself almost totally."

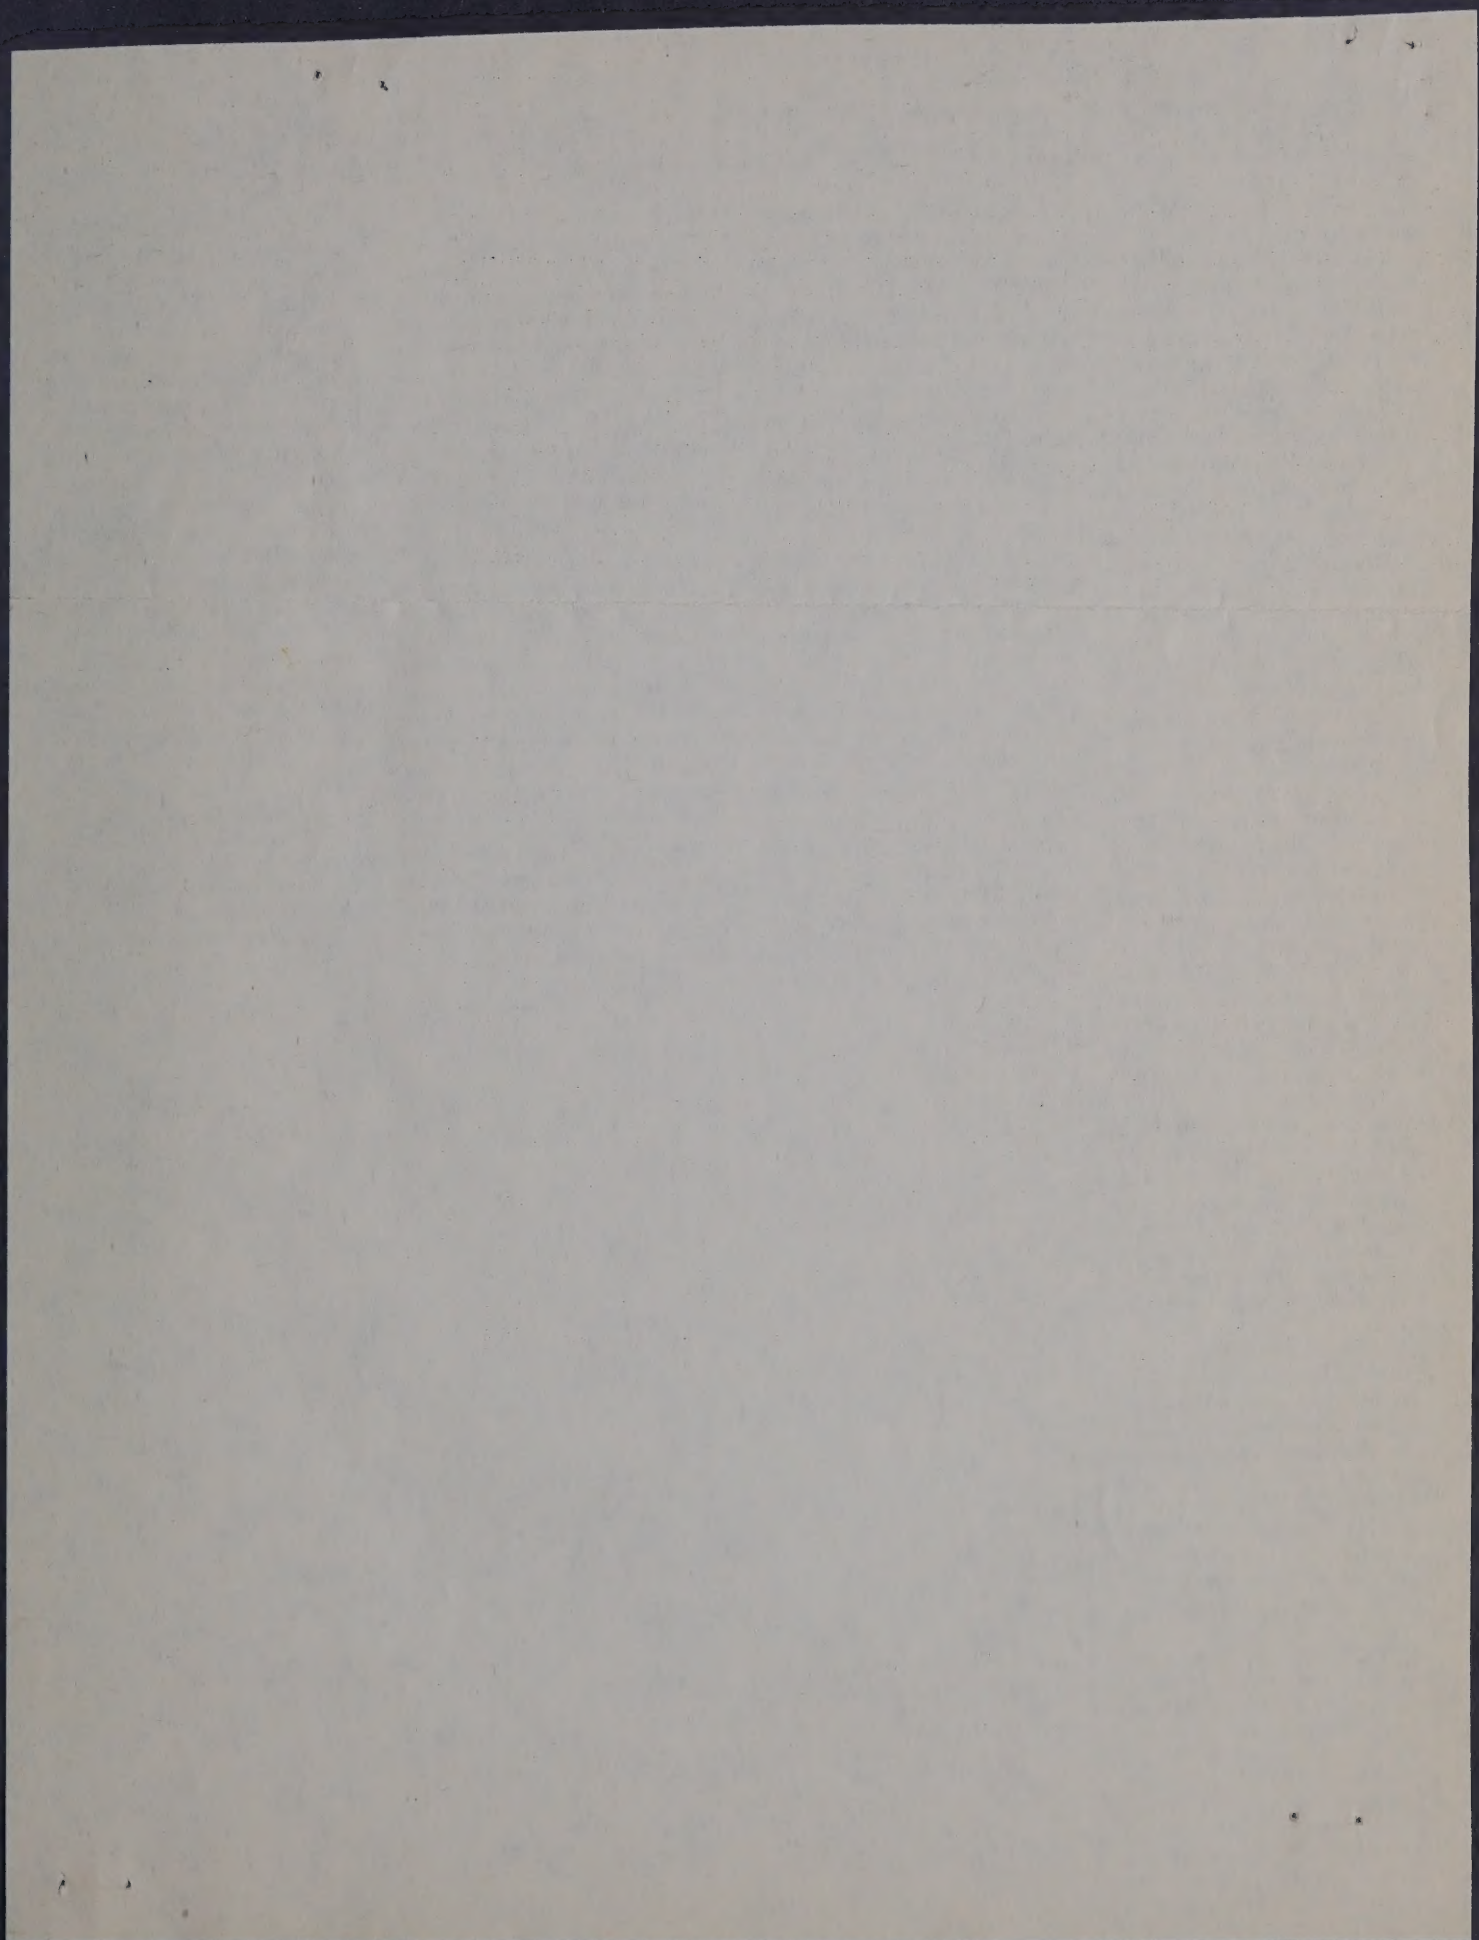

Sylvia Bruner takes Clarence to the grocery store for his shopping, but he cooks for himself. He especially enjoys baking—whether it be bread, pies, cakes, biscuits or muffins. Clarence said he learned to cook when his mother went to California in 1938-39 from the fall to the spring, and he stayed in Holyoke. At that time, he had two brothers who lived in this area, and their wives helped him out.

Clarence Goddard simple but happy lifestyle

Jackie Watson also helps Clarence by cleaning house once a week for him. He has been alone in the house since his mother was stricken with cancer in the spring of 1967.

Clarence keeps close track of time by the open face clock on his kitchen wall, the clock by his bed and his wrist watch which has a crystal that opens from one side so that he can feel the hands' positions. While Clarence can feel the sun's warmth, he has no sight of lightness or darkness and relies on his clocks to know what time of day it is.

A Braille calendar complete with the holidays and phases of the moon is kept on Clarence's wall, above his typewriter. He thoughtfully sends birthday cards to family members each year, and has a real love for all of his nieces and nephews, great nieces and great nephews.

Leona noted that he is delighted at the birth of a new family member. He is a great correspondent as he types letter after letter to send through the mail.

Clarence said people have asked to see his typewriter for the blind, and he just chuckles as he shows them his ordinary typewriter like any business office has. He does use his Braille slate on some occasions, punching out the letters in Braille.

Neighbor Olive Peach describes Clarence as a very well-educated man. When he receives mail, Clarence will take the letter to either the Peach or Mason house, and they will tell him who it is from. If it is lengthy, he sends it in to have it put into Braille, but Olive or Leona will read him his postcards when they arrive.

In 1932, Clarence's life history, as written by himself, was printed at the Nebraska School for the Deaf. "A Voice from the Realm of Darkness and Silence" included his first autobiography written at age 16, a continuation of the story up through age 23, a tribute to the memory of his father and a section on his dog Shep.

Among other experiences, Clarence wrote of his four years of school at Perkins Institution for the Blind in Watertown, Mass. He recalled his trip to Boston in 1929 as the first time he traveled alone and noted numerous other significant occasions in his young life.

He expressed his religious beliefs in the book, noting that he had talked with many people on the subject of religion and found that there are not many whose views are the same as his. "Many persons seem to find God only in the building erected expressly for the purpose of worship. God's presence seems to surround me wherever I am, so I feel no different when in a church than anywhere else."

"God lives, not in the church, but in the hearts of those who love and follow Him. He is with me every minute, wherever I am. I am no longer alone,"

Clarence's positive outlook on life and his unbelievable self-sufficiency have inspired many an individual. When Mrs. Peach taught school, she would take the children to visit Clarence, explaining the meaning of his white cane. She noted that Clarence would feel their heads as she would spell each child's name in his hand to introduce them.

The Mason children also got a good education on learning to think of someone besides themselves, said their mother. While young, they were careful to keep their toys off the sidewalk where they might be in Clarence's way, and when they learned to spell, they became great visitors with their neighbor.

Numerous items in Clarence's home were described by him as having special significance. His animal collection includes ceramic items given or sent by friends and relatives. He speaks highly of all of his nieces and nephews and has happy stories of times he's spent with them.

Clarence Goddard may not have the least bit of sight or hearing ability, but his verbal and written communication, his keen awareness of life's happenings and his appreciation for the sense of touch and smell that have become his eyes and ears have made his life a happy one.

"To me, he is almost a wonder of the world," related Leona Mason. "He wants to live a normal life, and he comes awfully close to doing it," she added with sincere respect for a dear friend.

When closing his autobiography written at age 16, Clarence said, "I no longer grieve over my loss of sight and hearing. Not long ago I memorized a little poem entitled 'God Knows Best,' and I believe He does."

Obituary Of Richard 'Dick' Creveling

Richard Craig "Dick" Creveling, son of Arthur H. and Elizabeth I. Creveling, was born in Imperial, Nebraska on Sept. 9, 1955 and died on Friday, Oct. 10, 1986 in Imperial at the age of 31 years and 31 days.

As a child he loved spending time with his dad, granddads Boots and Charlie, and with his great-granddad Harry. He developed a love of hunting early and hunted and fished as often as he could, both alone and with his dad, brothers, and friends. It was with the love and guidance of his dad and granddad Boots that Dick became a talented woodworker and was able to design and construct his own home.

He attended both grade and high school in Imperial. He had many interests but excelled in music. When he was small he sang endlessly—"Tom Dooley." While he was still in grade school, he performed in the musical "Annie, Get Your Gun." Dick started playing trumpet when he was 10 and continued through high school. Later, he performed in the musicals "Male" and "Charlie Brown." He and several close friends created and performed as the group "Soul Resistance." In the summer of 1972, Dick toured Europe with America's Youth in Concert.

Dick attended Kearney State College where he was a member of the singing group Choraleers. He married his high school sweetheart Carrie Gray Sept. 18, 1976. Dick was a supportive husband and a constant encouragement to her in her work and any new endeavor.

In December of 1976, Dick and Carrie moved to San Francisco, Calif. where Dick attended the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science. He graduated with honors and returned to Imperial to intern and practice with his father in the funeral home. Dick's mother helped him to learn compassion and to try to touch people he encountered in business. The funeral directing profession was a course of great satisfaction to Dick and he truly enjoyed caring for and serving the people of Chase County and the surrounding area.

Dick and Carrie were blessed on Christmas Eve of 1983 when Adam Craig was born. He was a special joy to Kan.; Todd Gray of Laramie, Wyo.; and Dirk Gray of Sutherland; and by many aunts, uncles, cousins and other relatives, as well as a host of many dear friends.

Funeral services were held Monday, Oct. 13, 1986 at the United Methodist Church in Imperial with Rev. Karl Lent and Rev. Blair Frank, officiating. Music selections included "You're Only Human," "Yankee Doodle," "How Great Thou Art" and "When the Saints Go Marching In." Mike Kitt served as organist and John McKenzie, guitarist, soloist.

Escorts were Jerry Kuenning, Joe Langin, Ernie Heskett, Dan Lenners, Jeff Pribbeno, LaVern Burtis, Rex Splitt and Bob Luhrs. Interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery in Imperial with Creveling Funeral Home in charge. Funeral directors from the area were seated in one section of the church and some assisted with the service.

IN MEMORIAM.

Funeral service of Marinda D. Bennett, whose maiden name was Goddard; was born October 29, 1847, in Virginia, died May 6, 1903, age 55 years, 6 months and 7 days, after a lingering illness with paralysis and peritonitis.

She married Captain David Bennett, December 24, 1873, at Ravanna, Missouri. She was the mother of three children, one son and one daughter dead. She leaves behind, a husband and one son. In her last sickness she was tenderly cared for by her husband, and many true and faithful friends.

Rev. John Morrison quoted the following Scripture: "Her sun has gone down. There is but a step between Me and death. Swift as a weaver's shuttle, and the flying shadow of a cloud. So brief is human life." My friends I come to you today not with ashes for a bleeding heart, not with dust for tear-dimmed eyes, but with this promise: "He that liveth and believeth on Me shall never die." Nature never loses anything. No atom is ever lost. The tiny leaf that falls today will make the rose redder in some bright tomorrow. God drops no stitches and there is no break in the life of the soul. This is a time when the heart cries out: "Oh God, is there a meeting place for the dead at the Northern Cape?" The midnight sun sinks below the horizon only for a moment, to flash up again in the dawn of a new day.

How hard it is to read between the lines in God's awful Book of Fate. "What I do, thou knowest not now. But thou shalt know hereafter." Jesus found death to be the King of Terrors. He left it only the King of Mysteries. He found death an invisible point, where the soul seemed to vanish into nothingness. He left it a golden cloud, where God and the soul meet in the name of an eternal friendship.

If human life begins here, with a golden sunrise, why should it not close with all the beauty and glory of a sunset scene.

Sister Bennett was a good woman, a peace-maker, and never a disturber. She has gone home.

The interment, under the auspices of Lewis Post No. 294, was at Dodge City.

OBITUARY

Iva Elsie Goddard was born near Corydon, Iowa, July 21, 1878; died near Holyoke, Colorado, June 11, 1920, aged 42 years, 10 months and 21 days.

She came to Nebraska when seven years old, locating in Chase county, where she has lived most of her life. She became a member of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in January, 1906, having been a member of the Christian church for some years before.

Her father was left a widower in 1909, and Iva kept house for him and took a mother's place in caring for her younger sister and three brothers who live to mourn their loss; also an older sister.

Hers was a life of service to others and she was loved by all who knew her. Her death was a severe shock to the whole community. On Friday, June 11, a team which she was driving ran away, throwing her from the wagon and killing her.

The funeral was preached at Chase Sunday, June 13, by Elder Tabor, of Wisay, Colorado, and the remains were tenderly laid to rest at Chase Cemetery.

"Blessed are they that die in the Lord."

Ira Clark Goddard

According to Belva

Ira was to have been English & German Descent. Minerva's father was born in Wales.

Ira homestead in Nebraska 1884.

Sylvia Goddard 2/9/1981

Iva was killed when the horses that Zeta was driving ran away and Iva was thrown between the front wheel and the wagon and her body went round and round, crushing her to death. She lived with Zeta at the time. I think she was 49 years old and had never wanted to live to be 50. She was a good Christian girl, was always going from place to place working for people who needed help. She had just been with Arie, Earl's wife and I when our three sons were born June 6, 10 and 16. She was killed the next month, July 22nd, I believe. She wasn't too well, always had a cough.

OBITUARY.

Ralph Glen Goddard, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goddard, was born June 16, 1916, died July 4, 1974, aged two weeks and five days.

He was taken ill on Sunday and suffered severely with spasms until Tuesday evening when God relieved his sufferings and called him Home. It seems he was "budded on earth to bloom in Heaven."

He will be greatly missed by father, mother, two brothers and a sister.

Funeral services were conducted at Chase by Rev. Miles, who spoke such comforting words. The little form was laid to rest in the Chase cemetery.

Dear little hands! We loved them so! And now they are in the grave so low. In the grave! So cold and white. We can not see them or touch them tonight. They are quiet and still at last. O me, how busy and restless they used to be. But now they can never reach up from below. Dear little hands! We loved them so.

Dear little hands! We miss them so! All thro' the day, wherever we go. All thro' the night how lonely it seems. But no little hands wake us out of our dreams. We miss them all thro' the weary hours. We miss them as others miss sunshine and flowers.

Dear little hands! We miss them so. They time or night time, wherever we go.

Dear little hands, when the Master shall call, we'll welcome the summons, that comes to us all.

When our feet touch the waters so dark and so cold.

And we catch our first glimpse of the City of Gold.

Then we keep our eyes fixed on the heavenly way, over the way where the white robed ones wait. Shall we know you, we wonder, among the bright ones? Will you beckon us over, O dear little hands!

Frank Goddard Passed Away Here December 30

Frank Edward Goddard was born December 7, 1883 near Creston, Iowa. He was the son of Ira and Minerva Goddard. Frank was three when his family came by train to Benkleman and then by wagon to their homestead located six miles west and two miles north of Champion. There he grew to manhood.

Frank was married to Sylvia Sales on October 20, 1907. To this union five children were born: Pearl, Ross, Russell, Ralph (who died in infancy), and Roland. Helen joined the family by adoption in August 1932 at the age of four.

Frank was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints January 27, 1924 and was ordained to the priesthood June 1926. His family and the church were uppermost in his life.

In 1912 Frank and Sylvia left their farm five miles west of Champion and moved to Imperial. There Frank worked for the Coop Oil Company until he was 72 and for the sale barn until he was 85.

He was preceded in death by his parents, three sisters: Zeta Holmes, Iva Goddard, Arle Banks, and two brothers: Harry, Jeff, and Earl.

He leaves to mourn his loving wife Sylvia, Pearl Fitzwater and husband Harold, Ross and wife Arlene, Russell and wife Ruth, Roland and wife Virginia, Helen Madden and husband Clarence; eleven grandchildren; ten, and many relatives.

He was a hard worker, a loving husband and father, and had many friends.

Frank lived 91 years 3 weeks and 2 days.

Lift your glad voices in triumph on high,
For Jesus hath risen, and man cannot die.
Vain were the terrors that gathered around him,
And short the dominion of death and the grave;
He burst from the fetters of darkness that bound him,
Resplendent in glory, to live and to save.

Loud was the chorus of angels on high,
"The Savior hath risen, and man shall not die."

Glory to God in full anthems of joy!
The being he gave us, death cannot destroy.

Sad were the life we must part with tomorrow
If tears were our birthright and death were our end;
But Jesus hath cheered the dark valley of sorrow;
We'll rise from the dead and immortal ascend.
Lift then your voices in triumph on high,
For Jesus hath risen, and man shall not die.

Funeral services were held January 2 at the R. L. D. S. Church in Imperial with William McCurry and Bernard Buchanan officiating.

Music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Baerle accompanied by Mrs. William McCurry, organist.

Escorts were Darrell Fitzwater, Jerry Goddard, Robert Goddard, Collin Goddard, Jan Newman and Terry Schleeman. Interment was at Mount Hope Cemetery near Imperial.

Creveling Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Harry J. Goddard, Age 76, Passed Away Here December 27

Harry Jefferson Goddard, son of Ira and Minerva Goddard, was born October 23, 1887, northwest of Champion, Nebraska, on the homestead of his father, and departed this life Friday, December 27, 1963, at the age of 76 years, one month and 29 days.

Harry was born in Chase County and spent his entire life here, except the time spent in the Service during World War I and 17 months at Chariton, Iowa. As a soldier he experienced some of the hardships of pioneer life and loss of his mother by death when he was 12 years of age.

He remained on the farm until 1918, when he enlisted in the Service of his country and assigned to Company C 339 Machine Gun Battalion, which he served 13 months overseas. He was in active combat in the Argonne area. Here the fiercest engagement of the U.S. Army in the World War was fought between the Meuse River and the Argonne Wood. The fighting was from September 26 to November 11, when the Armistice was signed. Following this, Harry's Company was in the Army of Occupation the next summer. He received his honorable discharge June 11, 1919.

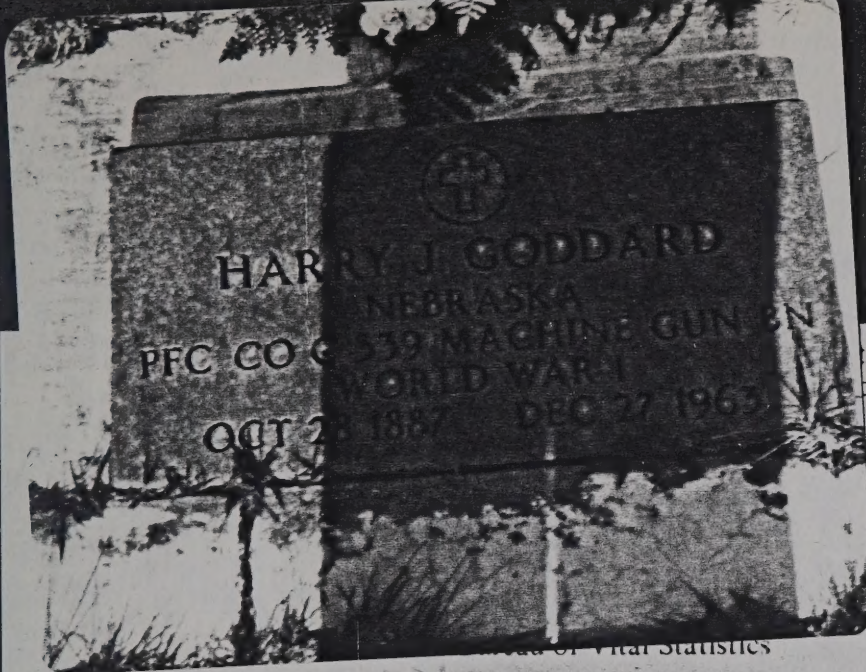

Returning home, he was married December 15, 1920, to Katie Langford of Chariton, Iowa. To this union were born two children, Burton and Tommy. Another son, Tommy, was later adopted.

Harry served as County Commissioner for several years. He was a good neighbor, a loving husband and father and being of a cheerful, jovial nature he had many friends.

Although he made no profession of religion, he had a strong belief in God and His power. Since young man he had been a member of the Masonic Lodge.

He was preceded in death by his parents and a sister. Those who mourn his departure are his faithful wife, Katie; his son, Burton, and wife, Lolly, of Denison; his daughter, Darlene, and son, Paul Kingsbury, and two children, Craig and Juleburg, Colo.; his son, Tommy, and wife, Betty; his daughter, Jeffra, also deceased; two sisters, Mrs. Zenas of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, Mrs. Aric Banks of Imperial, and many other relatives and friends.

BURTON GODDARD HOME AFTER 18 MONTHS SERVICE IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC

A veteran of 18 months service with the U. S. Marine Corps, more than a year of which he spent as a paratrooper fighting Japanese in the Southwest Pacific area, Burton Goddard arrived home Monday night to spend a month's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Goddard, and family.

Burton came by plane from California to Denver, and completed the trip by bus. The ship on which he came from the Southwest Pacific, a 15-day trip, arrived at a California port last week, and he called his parents by telephone last Tuesday night.

Although necessary military secrecy, which must continue until the war is ended, plus natural modesty, combine to reduce the information which this fine Chase County lad may give about his service to a very small amount, the fact that he has spent a full year in the extremely arduous and dangerous service of a paratrooper speaks volumes for everyone who has followed the course of the war.

Burton spent 42 days with the Marines in the great battle for Bougainville Island, in the Solomons, which our forces captured after an exceedingly difficult campaign, and he also served in others of the major actions in the vast areas over which American forces have been driving the Japs back out of their island bastions.

Burton Goddard is a splendid representative of the generation of young Americans who are fighting this war, all of them heroes of the highest order, appreciated to the fullest extent by the people at home, and welcomed back any and every time they can come.

Burton Goddard Back In States After Year As Paratrooper In Southwest Pacific War Zones

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Goddard of the Champion community received a long distance telephone call Tuesday night which filled their hearts with joy, and for mighty good reason. The call was from their son, Burton, just back in the United States after more than a year's service as a paratrooper in the Southwest Pacific area. Burton took part in some of the most important engagements in which the American troops drove Japanese out of several Pacific islands, in the extremely strenuous service of the paratroopers. He called from San Diego, Calif., and expects to be home on furlough within a short time. He has been in the Army for about eighteen months.

OBITUARY

John L. Banks was born November 8, 1880, in Lucas county, Iowa, and died April 29, 1937, at 5 o'clock P. M., at the hospital at Holyoke, Colorado, at the age of 56 years, 5 months and 21 days.

He came to Chase county, with his parents in March 1886, and with the exception of two years spent in the Grand Island Business College, his entire life was spent in Chase county, where he was actively engaged in affairs of farming, teaching, operating the Champion Mill and for the past seven years he has been secretary-treasurer of the Farm Loan Association of Imperial, Nebraska.

He was united in marriage with Arie Goddard on September 25, 1910. To this union were born 11 children, four of whom died in infancy and Andrew, who died at the age of six years. Remaining of his family are his wife, Arie Goddard Banks, three sons, Kermit, Loyd, and Leland, and three daughters, Belva, Hopal and Frances Marion. He is also survived by his father, George Banks, Sr., five brothers, George, Jr., David, Andrew, Allan and Frank, four sisters, Mrs. James Collins, Mrs. O. C. Heady, Mrs. G. W. Reichardt and Mrs. C. A. Cox.

He had a large and favorable acquaintance in this county and state. John had the faculty of making friends in all of his contacts. This was due to his qualities as a man. His philosophy of life was "Life is to give, not receive." His faith and courage on the journey of life never faltered and in his last hours, when death was a certainty, he maintained the same characteristic courage and hopefulness, and expressed confidence in his convictions of life beyond the grave.

At the age of 15 the outstanding event of his life took place in Cleveland, Lucas county, Iowa, when he professed Jesus Christ as his personal Savior and thereby became the immediate possessor of Eternal Life and obtained peace with God, which alone can be had on the ground of the sacrifice of our Lord, Jesus Christ. He did not identify with any body of Christians, but from the day of his conversion until the end came, he ever had an ear for the work of God, which is one of the divine marks of Christianity.

Just before his home call he made a clear confession of his faith in the All Sufficiency of the blood of Christ to remove forever every trace of sin and expressed a willingness to depart and be with Christ.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church in Imperial, Nebraska on Sunday, May 2, 1937. Interment was made in the family lot at the Chase cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. David Horn, Longmont, Colorado, and Rev. John Horn of Palisade, Nebraska.

R. Luhrs had charge of the services.

CHILD DIES AT CHAMPION

Early on Friday morning, November 25, Andrew Earl Banks passed away at the age of five years, six months and nineteen days. Besides his father and mother he leaves one sister and two brothers to mourn his loss, one sister and one brother having preceded him. The funeral services were held at the home in charge of Rev. Elmer Sims. Burial was in the Chase cemetery.

Little Andrew was an unusually bright child for his years. He endured his suffering with great fortitude, even saying to his mother a verse of the song, 'Carry Your Cross With a Smile.' He will be sadly missed by his companions in the public as well as the Sunday school. The sympathy of the community go out to these friends in their said bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors for their aid and sympathy expressed in so many ways at the time of the sickness and death of our little boy. We especially thank those who remembered us with the flowers.

Chase Cemetery

Chase Cemetery is located in the central part of Chase County in the SE quarter of Section 24, Township 7N, Range 40W, 6 p.m, or about nine miles west and two miles north of the town of Imperial, NE. The cemetery is managed by a group of local citizens. In 1999 a sign was added to the gate of the cemetery, and is pictured above on Memorial Day 1999, with flags.

Following are the cemetery records as indexed by Kermit Karns in August, 1963. There are, of course, many additions since that time, and we will update these records as soon as we can.

Earl Goddard Passed Away Friday, July 31

Earl Elijah Goddard, son of Ira and Minerva Goddard, was born April 27, 1894, northwest of Champion, on his father's homestead, and departed this life Friday, July 31, 1970 at the age of 76 years, three months and four days. He passed away after a brief illness at the Presbyterian Hospital in Denver, Colorado.

Earl was born in Chase County and spent his entire life here. He experienced some of the hardships of pioneer life. And the death of his mother when he was five years of age.

He was married to Miss Emma Smith, also of the Champion community, November 24, 1915. To this union were born a son, Harold (better known as Bill) and a daughter Leta.

Earl engaged in farming from 1915 to 1943 then he moved to Imperial. While residing in Imperial he worked for several of the leading business firms until about a year ago.

Though he made no profession of religion by joining a church, his life revealed a strong faith and belief in God. For his religion was a part of his every day life based upon the principles of love toward his family, helpfulness for those in need, honesty in his dealings with fellow man, and the rare quality to look for the good in others rather than to criticize the bad.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters, a brother, and a great grandson.

Those left to mourn his departure are: his faithful wife Emma, his son, Harold, and his wife, Valeda of Champion and their six children, Aron, Idis, and Barry Goddard, Valerie Brady, Carol Spady and Resa. His daughter, Leta and her husband, Jerry Brethower of Imperial and their two children, Rodney and Pam; twelve great grandchildren; and many other relatives and friends.

He was affectionately called "Pope" by his grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the United Methodist Church in Imperial Monday morning, with Harold Fitzwater officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Bauerle sang and Mrs. William McCurry played the organ.

Casketbearers were Aron Goddard, Idis Goddard, Rodney Brethower, Barry Goddard, Russell Goddard and Stanley S. Smith. Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery with Cre

Obituary.

A gloom was spread over the vicinity of Trumbull and Hansen by the message that announced the death of Troy E. Goddard, of North Platte, last Thursday. It has left a sadness among his many friends that will not be easily erased.

Troy E. Goddard was born in Washington county, Iowa, May 4, 1877, and when but six years of age moved to Adams county, Nebraska, where they have resided most of the time since. Although he was but twenty-three years of age, the writer feels safe in saying that he never had an enemy. He was loved and respected by every one who was fortunate enough to make his acquaintance. He was raised on a farm, and although young in years had chosen railroading as his life work. He had a position as fireman on the U. P. railroad from North Platte out. On this road he lost his life at 11:30 Wednesday night, March 27, 1901, while on run to Grand Island. When the train reached Coyote and went to run in on the siding to let the flyer, No. 3, pass, it was discovered that the train had broken in two, and Troy was ordered to go ahead and stop No. 3 no matter what the cost, so he rushed down the track through the mist and fog to his post where he stood waving his red lantern, but on came the train with no answer to his signal. But Troy, brave hearted boy that he was, stood at his post for he knew there would be a wreck and probably many lives lost if the train did not stop and like the loneliest, self-sacrificing man he was, gave his life to save others. He received no answer to his signal and was not seen until thrown from the track. He was thrown about thirty feet. The engineer stopped at once, but Troy was dead when they reached him. It will be remembered that last fall Troy rushed into a burning building and saved the life of a woman when no one else would attempt the rescue.

The remains were brought to Trumbull for the funeral, at which place he was married but two short months ago. His father arrived from Oklahoma and accompanied the remains from North Platte. Troy was a member of the Fireman's Brotherhood and ten members of the order came from North Platte to show their respect and love to their departed brother. The names of the members of the order who came were: W. L. Richards, H. S. Crockett, W. O. Lewis, A. S. Conte, A. B. Yates, Thos. Burney, J. Johnson, M. J. Brown, Frank Elliott and J. T. Bailey.

The funeral services were conducted Sunday by Rev. McKenney from the M. E. church at Trumbull. The remains were interred in Greenwood cemetery near Hansen. The deceased leaves a heart-broken young wife, father, mother, two sisters and two brothers to mourn his untimely death.

God has called him, we know not why,
Still for our loved one, we will often sigh
And while he dwells with God on high,
We'll prepare to meet him, in the sweet bye and bye.

For Troy's life still reminds us,
We should make our lives sublime,
And in doing leave behind us,
Deeds like Troy has left behind.

A NEAR FRIEND.

just who he belongs

South Sea Island Change

The change in the South Sea Islands is a very interesting one. It is a change that has been going on for many years, and it is a change that is still going on. The change is a change in the way of life, in the way of thought, and in the way of feeling. It is a change that is a result of the contact with the white man, and it is a change that is a result of the influence of the white man's culture.

LAST RITES FRIDAY FOR C. GODDARD

Funeral services were held last Friday afternoon from the First Christian Church in Holyoke for W.C. "Cliff" Goddard who passed away in his sleep Monday evening, January 6. He was 92 years of age.

Dale Arnold, minister of the church, officiated at the services. Burial was in Holyoke Memorial Park.

William Clifford Goddard was the oldest son of Samuel D. and Mary E. Goddard. He was born in Ravanna, Missouri, on September 15, 1883.

He came to Phillips County at the age of four when his parents came by wagon to settle north of Paoli. There he lived with his six brothers and one sister. It was a happy childhood in the pioneer home. The income was mainly from cattle raising and Mr. Goddard continued in this profession until he retired a few years ago.

While on the school board over 60 years ago, he met the teacher, Clarissa Pendleton Latta. Their friendship increased, and on December 24, 1914, in the G.M. Hitt home, they were united in marriage.

Each had a daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Jessie Jones of Anchorage, Alaska and Mrs. Junia Richmond of Gibbstown, New Jersey. After the school term, 60 years ago, Cliff and Clara moved to a homestead southwest of Holyoke, where they were making their home at the time of Mr. Goddard's death.

Two years after moving to their home, twin daughters were born, Mrs. Velma Sprague and Mrs. Verda Pollock. A few years later Mrs. Willa Zick and Mrs. Edythe Rossi were born, making a family of six daughters.

During the depression, when it was difficult to make a living with cattle and farming, Mr. Goddard worked as deputy sheriff for a number of years. He also served many years on the school board and the high school board.

Mr. Goddard passed away in his sleep Monday night. On Monday he had participated in ordering some new clothes and helped in the plans being made to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary. December 24th was the date, and the anniversary had been celebrated in several small groups, but on January 18 it was hoped to have a bigger, better one.

Mr. Goddard will continue to live in the hearts of his wife, six daughters, six grandchildren, five great grandchildren, one sister, and four brothers.

ROANN POE

Roann Sue Goddard Poe of Holyoke was born July 18, 1951 in Blaine, the daughter of Ann and Gaylord Goddard. She passed away Thursday, February 18, 1988 at Mease Memorial Hospital in Holyoke.

Roann grew up on the Valley area and graduated from Haxton High School and then an art school in Denver.

She married Edwin Poe March 11, 1984 and they made their home 13 miles southwest of Holyoke in the Apple Community. Roann was a member of the First Christian Church of Holyoke and Eureka Club. She was an avid sports fan and was a great supporter of her children's athletics.

Roann entered the world as a tiny, 3 pound, 8 ounce baby. It was discovered in her very early years that she had a heart condition. After medical tests in Denver she was sent home. Her folks then took her to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota and at the age of 5, Roann was one of the pioneers in open-heart surgery. The success of the surgery allowed her to have a family and enjoy a normal life.

Survivors include her husband Edwin; sons, Jeffrey of Lamar and Wesley of the family home; her husband's children, Dan Poe and wife Narda of Midland, TX; Kirk Poe and wife Sharon of Big Springs, NE and Lon Hoffman and husband Jim of Alwood; six grandchildren; her parents, Gaylord and Ann Goddard of Blaine; sister, Gay McGinnis and husband Dick of Haxton; brother, Claude Goddard and MARY MAY (GODDARD) HILL, above, has been a firm believer in the benefits of walking. She walked every day until she was 99. If the occasion being celebrated on March 15, 2001, at Heritage Living Center was not Hill's 101st birthday, it would be hard to guess her age. She still stands and walks easily for short distances, but she uses a walker to steady herself as she navigates the halls of the nursing home. She moved there, at the advice of her physician, on Dec. 15, 2000. Hill comes from good pioneer stock. Her parents, Samuel D. and Mary Elizabeth "Lib" (Helm) Goddard came to Colorado from Nebraska by covered wagon in 1886. They homesteaded property three miles north and one-half mile east of Paoli, where they raised eight children — all boys except for Mary May — who was born at the homestead on March 15, 1900. She became the bride of Frank Allen Hill on Sept. 10, 1924, and is the mother of five. Her children are Frankie Donnis (Hill) and the late Fred George Lechner, New York; Glenn Darling and wife Lois Mae (Amen) Hill, Haxtun; the late Wilma May (Hill) Rogers and husband Lawrence, Greeley; Valva LaVonne (Hill) Hofmeister and husband Glenn, Haxtun; and Jack Duane and wife Marlene (Dee) Hill, Haxtun. They gave Mary May and Frank 19 grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren. Frank died in 1954, and Mary May lived alone at a home her children built for her from 1963 until she moved to the nursing home. A birthday party was held for Mary May at the Heritage's dining room on March 15, 2001 to celebrate the occasion.

Still young at heart, Mary May (Goddard) Hill celebrates 100th birthday

By Jean Gray

Mary May Hill loves to dance. In her mind she glides across the floor, stepping lightly, dark hair swaying, eyes glowing from a face that has seen 100 years. The hair is still mostly dark. The eyes, also dark, belong to the girl on the dance floor. They sparkle as she teases — just a little, for fun. Born Mary May Goddard on March 15, 1900, she has seen the inventions that changed life — electricity, the telephone, cars, indoor plumbing. She has settled into having these conveniences and doesn't really want to think of life without them. Except maybe cars. They go too fast now. "People take a good car and ruin it by driving too fast," she says. She says she learned to drive as soon as the first car came into the family yard. "I couldn't run into nothing because there were no fences or anything to keep me from driving. All I had to do was keep it going and learn how to stop when I got back from where I was going." She was one of eight children and the only daughter born to Samuel D. and Mary Elizabeth "Lib" (Helm) Goddard. She affectionately refers to them as Pa and Ma. "Ma worked. Pa played." She's teasing again. "No," she says to set the record straight. "Pa just bossed but he was a good boss. And he had good kids growing up who knew he was the boss." She has outlived her seven brothers, six of them older — Cliff, Roy, Charlie, Ray, Jerry and Glen. Her baby brother, Ace "Acy," died in 1998. To her brothers, she was May. She had no favorites. She loved them all. "They always thought I was smarter than they were. They thought I was smarter than I was." Samuel and Lib moved to Colorado from Nebraska via covered wagon with their two oldest sons in 1886. Four more sons were born while they lived in the sod house they constructed on a homestead located three miles north and one-half mile east of Paoli. The Goddard children attended school near Paoli, traveling by horse and buggy. The sod house was replaced by a new house moved from Nebraska before Mary May and Ace were born. The two-story, wood-frame house was built as a half-way house by the railroad but, when the route of the tracks changed, it became the Goddard family home. When Mary May was 19, a tornado came through, removing a large shed from the back of the barn. Later, Samuel added to the homestead property by purchasing 320 acres to raise corn for the animals. The land was one mile from the Hill homestead where Mary May's future husband, Frank Allen Hill, was born on Feb. 15, 1899. As a young man, Frank spent time at the Goddards, helping to pick corn and do other farm work. At some point, Frank began to court Mary May. He would pick her up and drive her to dances in his horse-drawn buggy. Frank, too, liked to dance but he couldn't because he had asthma, said Mary May. "But he didn't mind for me to dance at all." In those days, dances were held at schools and there was also a pool hall in Paoli. "They would move all of the stuff that bothered us out of the way when they had a good dance," said Mary May. Mary May also liked to play piano, but daughter Valva Hofmeister said she was never good. She played by ear. "I used to play along with this guy who played a fiddle. He liked to have me play, but I kind of liked to dance. I was a stronger liker than he was, so I danced." While she loved it, dancing was not Mary May's whole life. As her brothers left home, the chores fell to her. "I raised cattle. Rode the planter and go dig (cultivator). I just took over the whole planting when my brother went to work for someone else." Mary May spent four years in the eighth grade at Paoli. "It wasn't because I was so dumb," she stressed. "I was waiting for my brothers to get out of school so they could go to Holyoke with me. We went everywhere with horses." Once she was out of school, she became a teacher, teaching six grades in a one-room school south of Holyoke for a time. Then some cousins came to visit from Oklahoma. "They wanted to take me home with them to teach me a few good lessons," she said, then added. "They didn't teach me nothing. I taught them." While in Oklahoma, she worked as a telephone operator. But she didn't stay for long. "Oklahoma was okay," said Mary May, "but it didn't have nothing on Colorado." After Frank and Mary May married on Sept. 10, 1924, the work continued. Frank worked for a road crew. Mary May cooked meals for the crew of eight to 10 men. During those years, the couple lived in a number of places near Holyoke. Then on Jan. 3, 1926, the family expanded with the birth of their first daughter, Frankie Donniss. The following year on May 4, 1927, their first son, Glenn Darling, was born. In 1928, Frank, Mary May, and their two children moved to Arapahoe to a farm that Samuel had purchased. But Mary May returned home for the birth of their third child, Wilma May, on Sept. 7, 1929. Samuel's death in 1931 brought the family back home for good to care for Lib. That same year, the couple's fourth child, Valva LaVonne, was born on Sept.

6. Frank and Mary May's fifth and final child, Jackie Duane, was born on July 1, 1933. Four years later they purchased a section of ground two and one-half miles west of the original Goddard homestead. It was here that they raised their family and earned a living. The homestead remains in the family today. In addition to being the mother of five children, Mary May was also her husband's partner on the farm. She helped feed the horses Frank raised. She milked cows. "I can remember milking 17 head of cattle before school in the morning," said Valva. "All by hand, and mom was right out there helping." She also shucked feed and walked behind a drill. She drove horses and later tractors. "I was a farm hand," she said with pride. Farming then as now saw hard times. In 1952, hail destroyed the entire wheat crop just as they were pulling a combine into the field to harvest it. Her proudest accomplishment, she said, was getting married and having her children. In fact, she said, if she could live her life over, she would have married again and had more children. "I didn't have no trouble raising kids," she said. "The more kids you have, the better off you are. My kids always helped take care of the ones that couldn't take care of themselves." That was then. These days she isn't sure. "I wouldn't want to raise kids in these times, but when I was raising kids, I wouldn't ask for anything better." Would she consider her children an accomplishment? "You bet. I taught my kids to work. Not only work, but when I told them something, I told them the truth. And I wanted them to believe it. If they didn't, then I would persuade them." She recalled a time that Frankie fell under the influence of a neighbor girl. "She taught my oldest child a few things that I would have just as soon that she wouldn't have," said Mary May. The few things were cuss words. "I liked to cuss because that made me feel grown up," said Frankie. But Mary May would have none of it. "Once when we was getting ready to go someplace and she thought she was going to get left, she came running out of the house cussing. I said if that's the way you're going to talk, you can't ride with me. I just shoved her out of the car and we drove off. That's the big training I gave her." If life as a wife, farm hand, and mother was hard, Mary May said she didn't mind. "I wouldn't have had it any other way," she said. Frank died in 1954. Her children grew up, but they remained the center of her life. "After the kids were raised, I just tried to keep track of them." Her daughter, Wilma May Hill-Rogers passed away on Christmas day in 1977 and it was very tramatic for Mary May. She has also outlived three grandsons and one great-grandson. After Frank's death, Mary May moved in with her son Jerry. While she lived with Jerry, the family built her a house on West Strohm where she continues to live. She moved there in 1963. For a time her son Jack had a television repair shop next door to her house on Strohm. She sometimes watched the shop for him when he was out doing repairs. Other than that job, however, she did not work outside the home. She did do a lot of crocheting, but said it was nothing. "That was after I got my cows milked and fed and the pigs taken care of. Now, if you think I didn't work, you're mistaken. I didn't just work at this (crocheting). I worked at everything." In later years she quit the more delicate crocheting, but continued to make afghans. She has made over 30, including one for each of her five children, and one for each of her 20 grandchildren. She has also done some traveling. She spent four months in Hawaii in 1977 visiting her daughter Frankie. She has also traveled to New York, Squaw Valley and San Diego, Calif., and Arkansas. But her favorite place to be is home. She has lived through two major surgeries, one in her mid 60s, and a second when she was 90. Up until a year and a half to two years ago, Mary May walked a mile every day. "She would walk to my house, rest a while and then walk back," said Valva. But when she started falling, the family made her stop. She then started walking the hall at her house. The hall runs about 15 feet. She would walk back and forth 50 times. Her family also stopped that walking recently. "At least as far as we know," said Valva. "We really don't know what she does when we aren't here." "I walked up to 99," said Mary May. "I can get around as good as most people who are 90 or 100." She also has good eyesight, although she wears glasses. As she turns 100, Mary May doesn't do a lot of reflecting, at least not verbally. "When I talk, I mean it, but I don't talk much," she said. Her favorite words are, "You betcha," unless yes isn't the answer. Then it's simply, "No." To hear her tell it in her few words, her life has been pretty matter of fact. Not a lot of vices. "I never drank or smoked or done anything that wasn't lawful. But I fought a little bit when it was necessary." She shows her fist. She couldn't offer any advice. "Good Scott. The older you get the less you know." Would she like to stay around a while longer? "No, ma'am. I'm through now. Anyone who asks for a hundred years, they don't know what they're asking for." Even so, she agrees to stay a bit longer and says the hard parts never bothered her. She's beginning to tire and pulls no punches about letting me know. She also changes the subject. "You have pretty eyes." Caught off guard, I say simply, "Thank you." Later I think I should have said, "So do you. They dance." Brocks celebrate 50th

Herald staff

Elwood and Trilba Brock celebrated 50 years of marriage on Nov. 26, 1999. They were married on Nov. 26, 1939, at the Haxtun United Methodist Church. Trilba is the daughter of the late Ray and Emma Goddard, and a 1938 graduate of Haxtun High School. After graduating from high school, Trilba moved to Denver where she attended Central Business College. She met Elwood at a party sponsored by the college. They became engaged in January of 1939. Both were working for Montgomery Wards in Denver at the time they married. Their daughter Shirley was born on March 10, 1943. The following year, Elwood volunteered for service in the Navy. While Elwood was in the Navy, the couple lived at Hawthorne, Nev., where Trilba worked for the Naval Ammunition Depot in the dispersing office typing checks. Elwood was discharged in 1946 and the couple moved to Haxtun and then to Kansas where Elwood helped his family on the farm. From there they returned to Denver where their son Gary was born on July 5, 1951. Trilba retired in 1985. Elwood has continued working in real estate and farming, but retired his real estate license this past year. They have been on a number of cruises and have traveled to Florida, the Tetons, Yellowstone, and

Three seeking two seats on hospital board

By Jean Gray

On May 2, registered voters will have the opportunity to fill two four-year terms on the Haxtun Hospital District Board of Directors. Polling will take place in the east room at the new Haxtun Community Center. Any registered voter who lives within the district, owns land within the district, or whose spouse owns land within the district, can vote in the May 2 election. The last time the district held an election for the board was in 1994 when six candidates ran to fill three seats. Elected that year were Claude Goddard, Connie Haynes and Jack Falk. Goddard later resigned for health reasons. Falk stepped down after completing his term. Haynes, who is now chairman, continues to serve on the board. The elections were canceled both in 1996 and 1998 because the number of candidates equaled the number of seats to be filled. Those on the board at this time are Haynes, Roy Pfaltzgraff, Pat Meakins, Marvin Fuesz, and Bill Garretson. Fuesz and Meakins are both completing terms. Meakins is running again. Fuesz has opted to step down after serving 51 years on the board. There are three candidates seeking election, including Meakins. The other two candidates are Vickie Hadeen, RN, who recently retired from Haxtun Hospital, and Bill Fuesz, Marvin's son. The two candidates who receive the highest number of votes will win the seats. Hadeen has lived in the Haxtun community all of her life. She was born and raised in the Fairfield community, attended elementary school there, then came to Haxtun for high school. After high school, she went to Chicago, Ill., where she attended Swedish Covenant Hospital to study nursing. She then went to California for a year to be with her husband Harold, who was serving in the United States Navy. On their return to Haxtun in 1959, Vickie Hadeen went to work at the Haxtun Hospital where she worked until her retirement earlier this year. During her time at Haxtun Hospital, Hadeen has worked all shifts. She said she has always loved nursing, with her favorite aspect of the profession being surgery and obstetrics "I love to help new life come into the world." She added that she is grateful that she had a husband and a family that understood how important her profession was to her. That family includes two daughters, Ruth Collier, certified nurses aide, who works in central supply at Haxtun Hospital, and Mary Lynn Ditter, who teaches fourth grade at Fort Morgan. Her son, Steve, farms with his dad northeast of Haxtun. She and Harold also have eight grandchildren. Hadeen also has experience serving as an elected official. "Four years down the road I'm going to be that much removed from it and know less about what's going on — and I'm going to be four years older. At this time, I feel like I can give four years." Meakins is the daughter of locals Lorin and Phyllis Starkebaum. She was married to Richard Meakins until his death in 1997. She has two sons, Steven and Mark. Steven and his wife Heather, who live just down the road from Pat, are expecting their first child in July. Mark and his wife Cheryl live in Windsor where Mark works for Baan Computer Consulting Firm. Pat Meakins graduated from Haxtun High School and then obtained her bachelor of arts degree with an emphasis in music from the University of Colorado. She taught music at Sedgwick and Ovid until the schools consolidated into Revere. She then taught at Revere for two more years. During the 1968-69 school year, she taught kindergarten at Haxtun, but stopped teaching to become a full-time mother when Steven was born. She did return to teaching for two short stints, first to fill in for a year for former elementary music teacher Ann Dye, and later she taught social studies for a half year, and was a substitute teacher for a number of years. Her music continues to be very important to her. In addition to directing the choir and coordinating the music program at her church, she gives private music lessons in voice, piano, keyboard, and clarinet. Her real job, however, is managing the family farm along with her son Steven. Even before the death of her husband, she was heavily involved in the operations of the farm, but now she says, between her and Steven, they run the farm. Mark also helps with the farming. In fact, she says, it is sort of a partnership between the five of them — herself, her two sons and two daughters-in law. Meakins was appointed to the Haxtun Hospital District board in 1995, and then ran unopposed for a full four-year term in 1996. She was a member of the Phillips County Fair Board when the boys were in high school, served on the accountability committee for Haxtun School for 10 to 12 years, half of that as chairman, and currently serves on the board of the Haxtun United Methodist Church. Fuesz graduated from Haxtun High School in 1962. He attended McCook Junior College for two years, then transferred to Colorado State University where he earned a degree in industrial construction management. After graduating from college, he went to work for Allis-Chalmers in its farm-equipment division. He worked for a time in Portland, Ore., and then in Moscow, Idaho. He and his family then returned to the Haxtun area to farm south of Haxtun. He and his wife Linda met while they were both juniors at CSU. Linda had transferred from Mesa State College where her father taught and was later named president. Bill and Linda were married in 1965. The couple had four children, but two have died. Steven, the oldest, died in 1982 at the age of 14. Their second child, a daughter, Lisa, died at birth in 1970. They are fiercely proud of their two remaining children. Chris, born in 1973, farms nearby and remains unmarried. Daughter Paige, their youngest, is married to Scott Thompson. She and Scott have one son, Seth, who is two and a half, and a

He said his father, Marvin Fuesz had been after him for years to run for the hospital board, but he didn't feel a real desire in his heart until now. "Now after watching dad put in so many tough years, when he wanted me to run in his place, I didn't have to think about that very much. "I just feel that there is a need for interested people to be running right now. I'm running more as a servant. Not because I have a burning desire, but more to serve the community." Each of the candidates was asked to respond to 10 questions that speak to the issues now facing the Haxtun Hospital District. Following are the questions and the responses from each of the candidates: Herald: What kind of things, if any, do you feel could be effectively shared between the Holyoke and Haxtun Hospitals? Hadeen: That's difficult, I think, because I haven't been on the board. It seems to me that it all depends on the doctors. We can't share a lot if the doctors aren't willing, which they are. But I would think that some of the services, perhaps surgery, obstetrics, special tests, and perhaps some of the administrative areas could be shared. Meakins: There are lots of things that we thought could be shared. I think nursing services like RNs, especially like we have weekend nurses or weekend doctors. Like if somebody from down there would want to take a weekend here to make extra money. Or like Dr. Yvonne Hinajosa, if she wanted to work part time in Holyoke when she gets back to wanting to work more than she is now, could spend a day here and there as a fill-in doc when someone has to be gone. Another thing, I think, is purchasing, if we had a sort of consortium like BOCES. It's too bad that we don't have a big one for Northeast Colorado. I don't know if that is a possibility. I think it could be, but I'm not in a position to start something like that. I know that the hospitals do some of that now because they buy from the same places, but they still don't have the same kind of buying power that you do at a huge hospital. They can buy mega stuff, and it would really be nice to get the discounts they get. Home health, I think we could share very easily because they run their own home health. Lab, there are tests that they are capable of doing that we don't have the facility to do, and we do some that they send to North Platte, (Neb.) or Sterling. I know there is quite a bit of lab work that could be traded back and forth. There's also the scopes that our doctors can do. Holyoke doctors don't have the equipment and training to do that. We do. It's too bad they don't send it here so the money could stay in Haxtun or Holyoke. It doesn't make any difference which way it goes. If one of us can do it, why both do it. I think we could do a lot to offer different services in this county, just so we don't double up. There are other things that we've talked about that I'm not sure would work. We (the subcommittee) made that list. I think there are more areas than what we've covered, but I think it takes time and understanding. Fuesz: I guess personnel and certain services can be shared, but I can't really say because I haven't been in there working. As far as specifics, I don't know enough to say. Herald: How do you feel about sharing personnel with Holyoke? Hadeen: I think you lose some effectiveness because each of the hospitals is set up differently. in one place, but you move them to another place, and they are not going to be working as efficiently. Also, the time spent driving back and forth between communities would be difficult, especially if the employee has children. So, I don't think that would be easily shared. It would be up to the personnel whether they want to. Meakins: I don't know how many people in the Haxtun community work in Holyoke and visa versa, but I know quite a few drive to Holyoke every day to work. People drive to Sterling and every where else, so I can't see that there's a problem for people to work at either place. Twenty minutes in this day and age is nothing. People in Denver drive at least that far to get to work every day. I don't see that as a problem at all. It's just getting along. We've done a few exchanges, like the two dietary departments. Alice Holloway worked with Melissa Memorial's dietary department, and I think she still does some over the telephone. Rhonda Goodwin worked in supply down there for a while. Why not do things where we can keep more money in our community, more of our services? Fuesz: I'm for sharing things that are independently operated or owned by the different organizations or hospitals. I'm for looking into that, but I feel the trust level between the two is low right now. It's going to take a while to overcome that. Herald: How would you feel about sharing a chief financial officer with Holyoke? Hadeen: I think that could work because that would help put us on the same page. Holyoke employs a lot more people than we do. If you had a chief financial officer over all, I think he could then sort of balance out the two places to see where we could be more efficient on both sides and run a tighter ship. It has to be somebody neutral, who comes in from outside of the community, who has nothing to do with any health organization, but who understands health system financing. Meakins: I think a CFO could be effectively shared because we have a sort of a part-time one, Sandy Lambrecht. She comes out from Sterling and does work, but there are a lot of other kinds of work that fall into that person's category. There wouldn't be enough work for us to hire one full time. I think that is something that could be shared very easily, even though we have two different kinds of operating systems and bookkeeping systems. Fuesz: It goes back to trust. When they are working for both hospitals, I think there could be a problem with allegiance. If they could be totally unbiased in their work and judgments, that might be a possibility. But with me its trust. If I can't trust somebody, its hard for me to do business with them. I don't know the details, but I know something was not right about this attempted merger. Herald: What, if any, benefits do you see in a cooperative effort between the Holyoke and Haxtun Hospitals? Hadeen: I think one benefit could be to maybe break down barriers, to bind the communities. For one thing, if we had a major disaster, we would be all ready by beginning to share now. If the doctors were already familiar with each other, and there was a major disaster in one community, the two medical staffs could work together. If one hospital was filled up, perhaps there could be a sharing of beds. Purchasing large quantities of supplies for the two facilities might be a benefit. Meakins: Better use of employees, better use of the facilities, sharing, and you should be able to save some money. For 10 years, both hospitals have consistently lost at least $100,000 a year. You don't lose that money in the sense that it's cash gone, but you lose it in the fact that you can't replace your assets.

You can't do any repair work. You can't replace a building — because your depreciation is just disappearing. Whether you're farming or anything else, you try to replace your equipment for more modern ways of doing things. We're just losing depreciation. When it's gone, I guess we just shut our doors, unless we can solve our problems and start making money. Critical Access is going to help, but we've been listening to them since October and we still haven't seen anything yet. It'll be June or July before we see anything from that. Our new doctors have helped a lot. Just having them here, having them at the clinics in Fleming and Crook, has been a tremendous uplift for everybody. You can't expect one doctor to handle what Jim (Dr. Ley) was handling for as long as he did. Fuesz: If we can get past the trust issue, then I think the benefit is profitability for both organizations. For that to happen, it's going to take tremendous effort on everybody's part. Not just the hospitals, but the doctors as well. I think it's going to take so much effort to coordinate all of that, that I have to wonder if the bottom line would be better. Maybe you could hire a third party who doesn't even work for Haxtun-Holyoke, but maybe works for all of Northeast Colorado as a consultant. I would feel more comfortable with something like that than trying to jointly share somebody between Haxtun and Holyoke. As I think about it, I think that hiring professionals that are already in business to help these smaller hospitals in Northeast Colorado is wise. I don't think we should just keep looking at Holyoke. I think we need to look beyond for joint efforts —to Wray, to Yuma, to Julesburg, all of Northeast Colorado's small rural hospitals. We need this expertise out here, but each one of us can't afford to hire someone. And probably even two hospitals can't afford it. But if you work with an independent business person on a consulting type basis that might be wiser. Herald: What are your thoughts on a merger of the Haxtun and Holyoke hospitals? Hadeen: I think the word merger is really scary right now. I think we need more sharing between the two. Do that for a period of time to see what can be done and how that works. Perhaps down the road in 10 or 20 years, the word could become merger. But I think it's a bit early to think towards that. Meakins: Ultimately, the big picture to me, is that it would be best to keep these two hospital as survivors together. If we don't do it together here, we will have to do it with Poudre Valley, Banner, any one of the big major companies like Sterling has done. That means we operate how they say we operate, not by how we want to operate, and they will cut services, personnel, and probably do a lot of things that we don't want to happen. I'm not saying that a merger is the answer. I've had really mixed emotions. I don't know what the answer is to be honest, but I know we can't continue to go the way we're going — the way we've gone the last 10 years, and survive. We can't keep things at the status quo like they are now unless we have a lot of people, who will use our facilities, move into northeast Colorado. The only way we can survive is to have more usage. I'm saying that because there are a lot of people who live in our community who doctor elsewhere. I can't point fingers, but I know there are. Fuesz: I'm totally against it at this point because of the trust level and the manner in which the attempted merger was handled. I think it will take years to build trust back, before you could even consider it. Herald: Given the amount of tax support the Haxtun community has given the Haxtun Hospital District, do you feel it would be appropriate, even though it is not required by law, to take any future merger proposals to the district voters? Hadeen: I think it has to be taken to the voters. I don't think that five people, or 10 people if you have the two boards, can make that decision for so many thousands of people — or they're not going to get the support of the community at all. That would only divide the communities further. I think our school and hospital have gotten tremendous support for their individual projects because they have gone to the people to solicit community support and given the voters information so that they understood that they had a buy into the projects. People want to know that they had some input. Meakins: The board does have the right to make that decision because of the bylaws and everything else in the district, but since we try keep the community as informed as possible, I would imagine there would be quite a few meetings. I don't know in the end, if everything was working right, whether it would have to be taken to the voters, but it could be. I'm not against taking it to a vote because on two occasions they voted to give the hospital extra mills. They have been real supportive. But if it was going well and you felt like the community was giving you a lot of positive support, perhaps not. If it's necessary, yes, if not, no. Fuesz: Definitely. Without question. If we can't convince the people who put the money into the hospital that a merger is a good thing, then we shouldn't be doing it. If we're not willing to go out and prove to our constituents that it's in our best interest to merge, then we have no business merging. Herald: How could that support be equalized in a merger scenario given that Holyoke has not given the same tax support to its hospital? Hadeen: I think initially, when the merger was talked about, we were assured that our taxes would stay in our district. I feel that really needs to be because, as individual hospitals, we're going to be responsible for the upkeep of our individual facilities. We need the tax money to do that. Meakins: I think the taxes dollars should stay in the district. Fuesz: To tell you the truth it would take somebody with more knowledge than I have to answer that question. That's one of the first things that I thought of, how is this tax situation going to work when we're paying so much more on this end? It looks to me like, if that (a merger) were to ever happen, the Holyoke end would have to increase their taxation, and I think they would probably vote for that. In reality, if you merged the two and you reduced the amount of money this hospital is getting, you've taken a hit, so I don't know how that would work. You can't put two struggling entities together and reduce your income and make it work. I know when they were talking about this merger before, they said, "Well, we'll work all of these issues out after this is all done. That isn't the way business normally works. You have your ducks in a row before you go into a merger. I think the thoughts from big business and all of these mergers all over has gotten into people's minds. I think we are almost brainwashed. We're led to believe that merger is good, no matter what. When you're dealing with people's health, that's different from pure business. Basically we are providing a service. You have people's relationships with doctors and all of those kinds of things to consider in this, rather than just looking at the business facts. Herald: There has been much discussion about the differences between the two hospitals in regard to efficiency. How could that be resolved in order for the two entities to work together? Hadeen: They have to have someone, who is totally neutral to the situation, come in and look at those facilities; see how many people are employed in each area; and determine how it can be done most efficiently. We had that study done here in Haxtun, and had asked if Holyoke could have done that same thing. I think it has caused us to tighten our belt. Most of our people are crossed trained — can do more than one thing. This increases the efficiency at the Haxtun Hospital. And I think having the nursing home benefits us because if you don't have any patients, or have only one or two, the CNA (certified nurses' aide) can move over to the nursing-home side and help lighten the load there or do extra things that won't get done when that side is short staffed. Meakins: If the two hospitals decided to work together and do things together, I think that there would have to be some kind of a committee or a board set up, not necessarily the same one for everything. Someone could work on the equalization of salaries. Someone could work on staffing. Somebody else could work on office management, utilizing the best systems. I think these committees need to be made up of both hospital personnel and community members because both have insights. Our local boards don't have time to do that. It could be ongoing. I don't think it's something that can be solved right away. I think those things need to be worked at and changed as time goes on. Fuesz: It takes a special individual to oversee and monitor all of this so it goes back to an independent person. It has to be an independent source with much more knowledge, much more experience, and much more training in those types of things to oversee and monitor that. Otherwise you have one entity claiming one thing and another entity claiming another. We might not be talking apples and apples. We might be talking apples and oranges. Basically, we can't get to the truth because everybody is trying to protect their own interest. Herald: What do you see as the greatest challenge for the Haxtun Hospital District board over the next decade? Hadeen: Keeping afloat. Keeping the hospital and nursing home as both very viable entities in our community — meeting the needs of our people. Meakins: We've spent a lot of time just looking year to year and not to the future. The biggest challenge is staying open, making a profit. We do make a profit in so many ways. Like what we do for the community as far as the hospital, the nursing home, the apartments, the services, the doctors that we have, the personnel, all of the people that are involved. That's all a profit. But we can't just do that, we have to make money too. So much of it is so perfect, so good. It's so sad that because of Medicaid, Medicare's reimbursement laws, things like that hurt rural hospitals. It's going to be really tough for rural hospitals, for the next 10 years, to survive because we're not getting as much help as we need beyond our local community. Fuesz: Being visionaries. Having the ability to visualize where medicine is going in the future. Then having the management in place to meet the vision. I think management is the key. If we are lacking in our thoughts as to where we are going, and then if we fail to accomplish what we need to do, we're done. Herald: How do you view the role of an elected board member? Hadeen: Listening to the other board members, to the staff, and to the community. Bringing continuing education as to what is going on, on the board level, back to the community. And I think we're just getting started, so I think it would be really nice to stay on another four years to see if we can get some things done that we talked about, that we see as part of the picture. Right now I'm just concerned about what has been going on. I would really like to stay on to see if we can find the answers. Fuesz: If elected, my responsibility lies in representing the people to the best of my ability. The board has to stimulate the visionary goals of the hospital and set the standards for management. I don't think a board ought to micro manage, but it needs to set policy and then hold our professionals accountable. I definitely feel I would need to listen to the concerns of the public. Without the doctors, we're not in good shape so its got to be a primary function of the board to make sure that our doctor/hospital relationships are good. I think there may need to be a closer working relationship between the doctors and the board. Above all, I think that everybody needs to lay their thoughts and concerns on the table, and then we deal with them.

Agencies, volunteers, deliver joint effort

By Jean Gray Herald publisher

A number of agencies and volunteer groups kept busy in the aftermath of the July 5 tornado. The cleanup effort also drew hundreds of volunteers, many of whom brought trucks and equipment for the cleanup task. Both the Fleming and Haxtun fire departments dispatched volunteers in the hours leading up to the disaster. According to Dale Lousberg, Fleming fire chief, members of the Fleming Volunteer Fire Department were out at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday watching the skies for tornadoes. Lousberg is also a member of the Fleming Town Council, so was attending a meeting that night. He said he left around 8 p.m. to join others from the department with the watch. Two other Fleming firemen are employees with the Town of Fleming. Lousberg said he had just gotten out of the meeting when the electricity went out in Fleming. He and the two employees, Keith Beck and Bill Helgoth, then went to work restoring power. Lousberg said he no sooner returned from that crisis when the Sterling dispatcher called to report that someone was trapped in a house that had been hit by the tornado. That person turned out to be Kenneth Gordon. However, said Lousberg, Gordon had already been rescued from the house by the time his volunteers arrived. At that point, Logan County Sheriff Bob Bollish was setting up command stations on the roads leading into the disaster scene. The Fleming volunteers were asked to help man those stations. The Fleming department dispatched five trucks and 10 men who remained on duty until 2:30 a.m. Fleming's tornado siren was never activated because the town was never in danger of being struck by the funnel cloud, Lousberg said. Haxtun volunteer firemen were also out early watching the skies, said Haxtun volunteer Dave Schaefer. "We went out around 7 p.m. so we were already out when the tornado was spotted," said Schaefer. The funnel cloud was spotted near Haxtun moving in a southeasterly direction. Because of the direction that the tornado was moving, the siren was sounded in Haxtun. The fire siren was also sounded to call volunteers to the tornado area, and also because of two stubble fires that were started by lightening. The stubble fires were put out by the rains, said Schaefer. Haxtun's fire department dispatched about 20 men who also remained on scene until around 2:30 a.m. manning the command posts and checking on residents living in the area of the tornado. Sheriff Bollish said his department was busy before and after the storm. His deputies were also on patrol watching for bad weather on Wednesday night. One deputy saw the funnel cloud set down and then followed it. "So we were already in the process of contacting neighbors before it sat down," Bollish said. "It was tough for us because it was dark and power lines were down everywhere. Our deputies and Fleming and Haxtun's fire departments were scrambling. It was a great effort." Bollish said another of his deputies witnessed the funnel cloud as it crossed Highway 6 at County Road 89. It dissipated after it crossed the highway. He immediately set up command posts which his deputies have manned twenty-four hours per day since. LCSO deputies have also kept regular patrols in the area at all times to make sure the victims had time to salvage any belongings that could be saved. "There haven't been any problems with looting," said Bollish. "It's a good neighborhood." There has been considerable traffic because of lookers, said Bollish. "We decided not to stop them as long as the lanes were kept open." Helping with the patrolling has been the Logan County volunteer posse. The posse members are reserve certified and have patrol cars. LCSO has had three patrol cars on at night and eight and nine during the day, Bollish said. On Friday Darrel Mentens, owner of Aero Applicators, Inc., a Sterling crop dusting company, took Bollish up to get an aerial view of the area struck by the tornado. Bollish said he could see that the storm actually started coming down at the intersection of Logan county roads 85 and 48, which is three miles west and eight miles north of Dailey. From there it traveled south and southeast, said Bollish. The storm continued its path until it reached Logan County Road 89, where it turned south reaching over an area that ran a quarter mile east and a the town of Fleming. A loud bang told he had just gotten out of the meeting when the electricity went out in Fleming. He said the two employees, Keith Beck and Gil Hagerty, then went to work restoring power. Hagerty said he no longer returned from that call when the Sterling dispatcher called to report that someone was trapped in a house that had been hit by the tornado. That person turned out to be Kenneth Gordon. However, said Lousburg, Gordon had already been rescued from the house by the time his volunteers arrived. At that point, Logan County Sheriff Bob Bollen was seeing an command station on the north side of Fleming into the disaster scene. The Fleming volunteers were asked to help with those stations. The Fleming department dispatched five trucks and 10 men who remained on duty until 5:30 a.m. Fleming's tornado siren was never activated because the town was never in danger of being struck by the funnel cloud. Lousburg said, "Hagerty and other men were also out early waiting the siren." He said Hagerty volunteer Dave Schaefer, "We went out around 7 p.m. so we were pretty early but when the tornado was spotted," said Schaefer. The funnel cloud was spotted near Hagerty moving in a southeasterly direction. Because of the direction of the storm, the siren was sounded in Fleming. The siren was also sounded in other volunteers to the tornado area, and also because of two other things that were alerted by lightning. The double lines were put out by the storm, said Bollen. Hagerty's department dispatched 10 out of 30 men who were stationed on scene until around 5:30 a.m. manning the command posts and observing on residents living in the area of the tornado. Sheriff Bollen said his department was busy before and after the storm. His deputies were also on duty waiting for bad weather on Wednesday night. One deputy saw the funnel cloud set down and then followed it. "So we were already in the process of contacting neighbors before it set down," Bollen said. "It was tough for us to track it as it was dark and power lines were down everywhere. Our deputies and volunteers and Hagerty's the departments were searching. It was a great effort."

Bollen said another of his deputies witnessed the funnel cloud as it crossed Highway 6 at County Road 88. He stated after it crossed the highway, the immediately set up command posts with his deputies have manned twenty-four hour out day ends. LOGO deputies have also kept regular patrols in the area at all times to make sure the victims had time to salvage any belongings that could be saved. "There haven't been any problems with looting," said Bollen. "It's a good neighborhood. There has been considerable traffic because of looting."

Bollen said he decided not to stop them as long as the houses were kept open. He said with the patrolling has been the Logan County volunteer posse. The posse members are reserve deputies and have earned cars. LOGO has had three points on a night and night and this during the day, Bollen said. On Friday, Daniel M. Jones, owner of Aero Association, Inc., a Sterling car during the storm, took Bollen up to get an aerial view of the area struck by the tornado. Bollen said he could see that the storm actually started coming down at the intersection of Logan county roads 85 and 88, which is three miles west and eight miles north of Dancy. From there it traveled south and southeast, said Bollen. The storm continued its path until it reached Logan County Road 88, where it turned south heading over an area that ran a quarter mile east and a half mile west of County Road 89. It continued south on County Road 89 until it dissipated just south of Highway 6. Bollish estimated that approximately a dozen cattle were killed by the tornado. Power poles along seven miles of road were taken out by the storm, said a spokesman for Highline Electric. Workmen from the rural electric company were out in force Thursday and Friday repairing the damage. On Saturday, the spokesman reported that electricity was back on at all the critical places such as stock wells and homes. Highline crews had replaced over 100 poles as of 4:30 p.m. on Friday, said the spokesperson, and expected to replace another 50 before they finished. Also offering help were volunteers from the local chapter of the American Red Cross. According to Haxtun volunteer Sherrilyn Yost, the Red Cross delivered 75 sack lunches to disaster victims and cleanup volunteers on Thursday at noon. That evening they delivered 60 more. The number of cleanup volunteers escalated on Friday, said Yost. They first delivered 60 sack lunches for Friday at noon, but received a call for more. "We ended up taking out 136 sack lunches," she said. Yost and her group of volunteers delivered a meal of fried chicken for volunteers on Friday night. All of the meals, which were paid for by the Red Cross, came from Haxtun Supers. Smith's local helpers were Kristi Firme, JoAnn Goddard, Theresa Davis, Carol Scheel, June Stauffer, Diana Hill, Cinda Hill, and Maryann Ham. Besides delivering food and over 400 bottles of water to the disaster area, the Red Cross also met some individual needs of the victims, including pillows, linens, and medicines. Yost also set up a shelter on Wednesday night, but closed it when she learned that all of the storm's victims had found shelter with family or friends. In addition to patrolling, LCSO deputies also helped watch inmates from the Sterling Correctional Facility who were brought out to help with the cleanup. And on Friday, deputies set up camel net webbing for shade. One deputy, Mike Fryrear, is related to Darrell and Helen Lambert, one of the couples whose home was flattened by the storm. "So he's been out there in full force," said Bollish. "It has been one big, joint effort," Bollish repeated.

Santa returns to old main street hang out

By Carol Scheel Herald staff writer

He's back! After lying on the shelf for a year, the plastic Santa is again hanging out on the south end of Haxtun's main street — welcoming everyone to downtown. After 35 years, the Santa had become frayed and battered. And although the decoration had been retired, and a replacement purchased through the efforts of Shelby Knode and the late Ken Kurtzer, the old, familiar Santa was missed. And so, members of the Haxtun Community Auxiliary opted to spend several hours repairing the jolly, plastic elf in order that he might once more take his place among Haxtun's Christmas decorations. The Santa was originally purchased in November of 1965. Herald brings home awards 10th year in a row

For the tenth consecutive year, the Haxtun-Fleming Herald earned awards in the Colorado Press Association's Better Newspaper Contest. The local newspaper has earned awards nearly every year since 1987. The exception was 1990. Those awards cover all facets of the newspaper's production, including advertising, editorial writing, features, layout and design, special sections and sports photography. This year the Herald brought home four awards. Publisher Jean Gray earned a third-place for her feature story about local centurion Mary May (Goddard) Hill. The newspaper also earned a second-place award for its special Valentine section, Celebrating Love, One-Half Century Plus, in which couples married 50 years or more were featured, and third place for its classified page. The fourth award received by the newspaper was for its Web page on the Internet. This is the second consecutive year that the Herald's Web site has earned a place among the sites honored. Phillips County's other newspaper, the Holyoke Enterprise, also brought home four awards this year. The Enterprise earned third place for Best Series (Y2K); second for Best Headline Writing; second in Best Informational Graphic (design by Angela Goldenstein); and second for Best Advertising Campaign (Angela Goldenstein). The Sterling Journal Advocate also earned recognition. Todd Hepler, Journal-Advocate staffer, earned a third-place award for an editorial. Hepler also earned second place in Best Sports Photograph and a third for Best Single-Page Design. The staff at the Journal-Advocate earned third place for its classified page. The Herald competes with Class One, weeklies with circulation under 1,750. The Enterprise is a Class-Two newspaper and competes with weeklies with circulation over 1,750. The Journal-Advocate competes in Class Four, dailies with circulation under 10,000. This year's contest was judged by journalists from the Wisconsin Press Association. The awards were presented on Saturday, Feb. 17, during CPA's 123rd annual convention held at the Brown Palace in Denver. Those attending from the Herald were Gray, Deanna Herbert, Donna Veca, and Carol Scheel.

Dick McDaniel retires

By Donna Veca

After 35 years in his chosen profession, Dick McDaniel, fifth grade teacher at Haxtun, is retiring. "I like to teach," McDaniel said in a recent interview. McDaniel was born and raised in Fleming. He hadn't decided what profession he wanted to pursue when he graduated from Frenchman High School in Fleming in 1959. After a year at Colorado University, Boulder, he still hadn't decided. In 1960 he transferred to Northeastern Junior College, Sterling, to be near his high school sweetheart, Gay Goddard, a 1960 Haxtun High School graduate who was attending NJC. He and Gay were married on August 20, 1961. After the school year ended each year they came back to Fleming where McDaniel farmed. McDaniel held down three jobs to support himself while attending NJC. It was a job driving the school bus for the Sterling School District that inspired him to become a teacher. "While I was driving the bus, I discovered that I enjoyed the kids," McDaniel said. "I was also teaching Sunday school at that time. It was a natural progression to choose a career that combined being with kids and teaching." After a year at NJC, he and Gay both transferred to the University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, where he graduated in 1964 with a degree in elementary education. His first teaching assignment was fifth grade for the Ault School District. After one year he transferred to Pierce, another school in the Ault district, where he taught fifth grade from 1965 to 1967. In the summer of 1967 he got a job with the Haxtun School District. He has seen many changes: Changes in curriculum, in teaching methods, and in the general temperament of the classroom environment. When McDaniel first came to Haxtun he did a lot of departmentalized teaching. He taught sixth grade spelling, and sixth and eighth grade math and science. At that time there were enough students for two classrooms for each grade. It wasn't until 1985, after 20 years, that McDaniel became a fifth grade teacher with a self-contained classroom. He has taught fifth grade at Haxtun ever since. The biggest change he has seen is in family and social structure and how it affects the school. "When I came, there were very few kids from single-parent homes. With today's economy, in many instances it takes two parents working to support a family. The children learn to make decisions for themselves and find it difficult to give up that authority to a teacher. The school is expected to do so much that the family used to do and it's much harder to teach." McDaniel said Chris Hill, a student who is now in eighth grade, has been his most interesting student because he and his parents, Tony and Diana Hill, had lived in Saudi Arabia for several years. "Chris brought first-hand experience of the customs and religious beliefs of that country to the class," McDaniel said. "For instance, he told us that women in Saudi Arabia must be veiled from head to foot when they appear in public and said his mother was detained once for violating the laws of Purdah because the wind blew her skirt above her ankles." Working with kids — helping kids out and watching them improve has been the most rewarding part of the job, he said. "Every kid achieves in a different way," said McDaniel. To find out how each kid does it is hard to do. It's hard to watch

He has seen many changes. Changes in curriculum, in teaching methods, and in the general temperament of the classroom environment. When McDaniels first came to Haxton he did a lot of departmentalized teaching. He taught sixth grade spelling, and sixth and eighth grade math and science. He is looking forward to having only one job, farming, instead of two. He took over his dad's farm near Fleming in 1974. He and Gay have raised three sons. A nephew, Wes Poe, has lived with them the last two years. His oldest son, Kevin, ranches and farms near Fleming and is a graduate of Colorado State University, Fort Collins, with a degree in agronomy. Kent, his second son, is married to the former DeAnna Hainley of Haxtun, and is the father of McDaniel's only grandchild, Kolt. He went to Western State, Gunnison, and graduated with a degree in math. He is now the head of personnel for ConAgra, Greeley. Justin, his youngest, went to NJC and the University of Wyoming, Laramie. He graduated with a degree in electrical engineering and works for Honeywell Corp. in Phoenix, Ariz. He is married to former Haxtunite Jill Potter. McDaniel's wife Gay was elected mayor of Haxtun in 1992, and has served on the town board since 1979. She does not see retirement for herself in the near future, she said.

REPORT OF THE
COMMISSIONER OF THE LAND OFFICE

STATE OF COLORADO, In the County Court of said County County of Phillips

at the April Term thereof, A. D. 1913.

IN THE MATTER OF

DECREE.

CLARA LATTA, PLAINTIFF,
No. vs. HOWARD LATTA, DEFENDANT.
This cause having been brought on to be tried on this 20th day of May A. D. 1913, said day being one of the regular juridical days of the April Term, A. D. 1913, of said Court, the said plaintiff appeared by Claude D. Walrod, her attorney, the said defendant, appeared in person and by J.H. Painter, his attorney.

and thereupon, this cause came on to be heard before the Court without a jury. And the Court, having heard all the evidence, and the arguments of Counsel, and having found, upon due consideration, that the said defendant is guilty of the matters charged in the complaint; and it having been made to appear to the satisfaction of the Court, and the Court so finding that a summons was regularly issued in this cause and served upon the said defendant by personal service in the State of Kansas and in the manner prescribed by law; that the said defendant has appeared and pleaded to said plaintiff's complaint herein within the time allowed by law, and is present in Court both in person and by attorney at the time of hearing of this cause, and plaintiff and witnesses having been sworn and examined in open court touching the allegations of the complaint, the court finds and defendant declined to offer evidence and that the material allegations of the plaintiff's said complaint are sustained by the evidence; that said evidence is free from all legal exceptions; that the said plaintiff was personally present at the trial of said cause, and is now and has been for at least one whole year last past, prior to the commencement of said action a bona fide resident and citizen of the County of Phillips and State of Colorado; that a contract of marriage was solemnized between the plaintiff and defendant at Boulder in the State of Colorado on or about the 18th day of June A. D. 1907, and they are now husband and wife; that since said marriage the said defendant all the while being in good being in good bodily health has failed to make reasonable provision for the support of his family and this plaintiff for the space of one year and more immediately prior to this action; that he has been guilty of acts of cruel and inhuman treatment toward the plaintiff as stated in her complaint and, that said matters alleged and proved in behalf of the plaintiff are sufficient in law to entitle her to the relief prayed for in her said complaint; *and the Court further finds that said parties had as the issue of their said marriage one child now living, to-wit: Junia Irene Latta aged about four years and seven months at the beginning of this action and being now sufficiently advised in the premises after due deliberation thereon, had and upon motion of Claude D. Walrod attorney for the said plaintiff, it is ordered by the Court that a Decree be granted and entered herein in accordance with the prayer of said plaintiff's complaint in this behalf on file herein;

It is Therefore Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed By the Court that the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing between the said plaintiff Clara Latta and the said defendant Howard Latta be and the same are hereby dissolved, and that said parties are and each of them is freed and absolutely released therefrom, and that all and every duty, rights and claims accruing to either of said parties by reason of said marriage shall henceforth cease and determine.

And it is Further Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed By the Court that until the expiration of the full period of one year from and after the day of the date hereof that neither of said parties be permitted to remarry to any other person.

And it is Further Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed By the Court that plaintiff be and she is hereby granted the further sum of $50.00 attorney's fees, with a further sum of $15.00 per month permanent alimony until further order of this Court as a judgment against the defendant.

*And it is Further Ordered, Adjudged and Decreed By the Court that the sole care and custody and control of the said minor child Junia Irene Latta be and the same is hereby awarded to the said plaintiff until the further order of this Court in the premises, and that the said defendant, Howard Latta pay the costs of these proceedings to be taxed.

Done and signed in open Court this 20th day of May A. D. 1913.

October 1964 - October 1971
The first of these was the 1964-65 season when the total catch was 1,000 tons.

The second was the 1966-67 season when the total catch was 1,200 tons. This was due to a combination of factors, including a high level of effort and a high level of stock.

The third was the 1968-69 season when the total catch was 1,100 tons. This was also due to a combination of factors, including a high level of effort and a high level of stock.

The fourth was the 1970-71 season when the total catch was 1,000 tons.

These four seasons were the only ones in which the total catch was over 1,000 tons.

There are a number of reasons why the total catch was so high in these four seasons. One reason was the high level of effort, which was maintained throughout the period. Another reason was the high level of stock, which was maintained throughout the period. A third reason was the high level of effort, which was maintained throughout the period. A fourth reason was the high level of stock, which was maintained throughout the period.

Ocean was the first person to have this operation and live through it. Her legs was packed in ice and then taken off. this was done because she had heart trouble. She was a very happy person. did her own house work. Lot of hand work, all from a wheel chair as she wasn't able to wear the artificial limb

She was also wrote up in medical history as she was the only person to come through this type of operation.

She lived ten years after her operation. Died from heart trouble.

She live to see six of her seven grandchildren and enjoyed them very much.

Mrs. Oshan Pickett, who is cheerful and thankful to be alive after an unusual operation in which ice was used as anaesthesia in the amputation of both legs above the knees. The circulatory ailment that affected her legs had been fatal to all cases in previous similar cases on medical record. Mrs. Pickett underwent the operation Jan. 24 in Research Hospital in Kansas City and has been home 12 days.

Mrs. Pickett 'Girl With A Million Dollar Smile'

By Doris Thompson

~~Named by doctors and nurses~~ in Research Hospital where she was a patient for three weeks following the amputation of both legs above the knees. "The Girl With the Million Dollar Smile", Mrs. Oshan Pickett is still smiling and hoping to improve so that she can help with the housework from her wheel chair which she knows she will have to use for a year and a half. Doctors have told her that then she can use artificial limbs.

In the meantime she keeps up her courage. "It takes a great person to have that courage," said her sister, Mrs. Allie Holmes, of Lineville. And Mrs. Pickett does have that strength and courage that makes you feel all the better for having talked to her, and you are sure that she will win out.

Medical expenses were heavy and these will be al expense because Mrs. Pickett is still under a doctor's care. A woman has to be nired to help with the housework, and on top of that is the fact that Mr. Pickett cannot work because he has to stay home to help care for his wife.

Last week their son, Ernest Pickett, began work with the state highway department here, and he is the only wage-earner in the family. The other son, Forrest, who is married, is attending school under the G. I. bill of Rights in Kansas City. Both sons were in the service.

Aware of the financial situation, the deacons of the Baptist church of which Mrs. Pickett is a member have started a fund to be known as the Mrs. Oshan Pickett Fund. Francis Beadles is treasurer and Miss Lelia Klingensmith is his assistant. Already voluntary contributions from others than Baptist church members have been re-

A car accident which occurred on No. 6 highway on the corner north of Imperial was fatal to Ray Goddard early Monday morning March 7, when the auto which he was driving left the grade and turned over, pinning him beneath. The other two occupants, George Banks and John Collins received minor injuries. Mr. Collins was treated for cuts about the face and head and Mr. Banks was taken to the Imperial Community hospital for observation.

Mr. Goddard was driving the car south toward Imperial, when it skidded into the shallow ditch. No other cars were involved in the accident. The time set for the accident was about 12:30 A. M. as indicated from the broken watch taken from the deceased clothing.

Ray Goddard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Goddard of Ravenna, Missouri, and was born on March 4, 1901. He came to Imperial about eighteen years ago and has resided here nearly this entire time. He was a barber by trade.

Funeral services will be held at the Luhrs Funeral Home today, Thursday, March 20, at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the Chase Cemetery.

A complete obituary will appear in the next issue of the Republican.

RAY J. GODDARD

Ray Jefferson Goddard the fourth son of James O. and Hannah Mason Goddard was born at Ravenna Missouri March 4, 1901, and died at Imperial, Nebraska March 17, 1941, at the age of 40 years and 13 days.

He was married to Della Thompson in Missouri in 1920 and was the father of one child, a daughter Esther now of Ottumwa, Iowa.

When a small boy of seven, he lost his mother, since which time he has made his own way in the world. (In search of health, he came to Imperial about 18 years ago and has since made this his home. He was a barber by trade, and a good one. He was congenial and made friends easily and was in turn a good friend to many in the community.

He waged an unequal warfare. Left motherless at seven, he was practically without a home all his life which accounts in large measure for an unhappy outcome. We shall cover his foibles with the mantle of Christian charity and leave his soul in the hands of a just and gracious God.

He leaves his father, James O. Goddard of Princeton, Missouri, a brother Troy at the same place, a sister Rhoda, at Concord, Montana, another sister, Bessie, at Libby, Montana and many friends.

Funeral services were conducted at the Luhrs Funeral Home, Imperial by Rev. W. H. Shoaf, Thursday afternoon, March 20th at 2 p. m. Burial was in the Chase cemetery.
